Many successful authors, including J. R. R. Tolkien, J. K. Rowling, and C. S. Lewis, have been influenced by the great French Enlightenment writers, particularly Voltaire, Rousseau, and Montesquieu, in their writing style and political philosophy.

As a consequence, the Plautus, Cato, Caecilius, Frontinus, and Quintus histories are divided into chapters by subject, the Caecilius and Frontinus being organized into chapters by date, and the Quintus into chapters by date and by subject. The Caecilius and Frontinus chapters are numbered in sequence, and have the day of the month and corresponding month written above them, corresponding to the date upon which the chapter is written. The Quintus chapters are numbered sequentially, and have no day or month written above them, but the subject is indicated. The Caecilius and Frontinus chapters are numbered in sequence, and have the day of the month and corresponding month written above them.

In the play, Antony and Cleopatra, the title and that of the play are used to describe the relationship between the two main characters. The title of the play is a metaphor for the relationship between the two main characters, as it is used to describe the relationship between the two main characters.
