Electronic Musician ,2009 The Rubato Composer Music Software

Gérard Milmeister,2009-04-05 Both modern mathematical music theory and computer science are strongly influenced by the theory of categories and functors One outcome of this research is the data format of denotators which is based on set valued presheaves over the category of modules and diaffine homomorphisms The functorial approach of denotators deals with generalized points in the form of arrows and allows the construction of a universal concept architecture This architecture is ideal for handling all aspects of music especially for the analysis and composition of highly abstract musical works This book presents an introduction to the theory of module categories and the theory of denotators as well as the design of a software system called Rubato Composer which is an implementation of the category theoretic concept framework The application is written in portable Java and relies on plug in components so called rubettes which may be combined in data flow networks for the generation and manipulation of denotators The Rubato Composer system is open to arbitrary extension and is freely available under the GPL license. It allows the developer to build specialized rublettes for tasks that are of interest to composers who in turn combine them to create music. It equally serves music theorists who use them to extract information from and manipulate musical structures. They may even develop new theories by experimenting with the many parameters that are at their disposal thanks to the increased flexibility of the functorial concept architecture. Two contributed chapters by Guerino Mazzola and Florian Thalmann illustrate the application of the theory as well as the software in the development of compositional tools and the creation of a musical work with the help of the Rubato framework. Keyboard, 2008

The De Gruyter Handbook of Automated Futures Vaike Fors, Martin Berg, Meike Brodersen, 2024-09-23. How does automation affect us, our environment and our imaginations? What actions should we take in response to automation? Beyond grand narratives and technology driven visions of the future, what more can automation offer? With these questions in mind, The De Gruyter Handbook of Automated Futures provides a framework for thinking about and implementing automation differently. It consolidates automated futures as an inter and transdisciplinary research field embedding the imaginaries, interactions and impacts of automation technology within their social, historical, societal, cultural and political contexts. Promoting a critical yet constructive and engaging agenda, the handbook invites readers to collaborate with, rather than resist, automation agendas. It does so by pushing the agenda for social science, humanities and design beyond merely assessing and evaluating existing technologies. Instead, the handbook demonstrates how the humanities and social sciences are essential to the design and governance of sustainable sociotechnical systems. Methodologically, the handbook is underpinned by a pedagogical approach to staging, co-learning and co-creation of automated futures, with rather than simply for people. In this way, the handbook encourages readers to explore new and alternative modes of research, fostering a deeper engagement with the evolving landscape of automation. Come Together Mark Garvey, 2007.
