Launius,2006 In March 2005 the NASA History Division and the Division of Space History at the National Air and Space Museum brought together a distinguished group of scholars to consider the state of the discipline of space history This volume is a collection of essays based on those deliberations The meeting took place at a time of extraordinary transformation for NASA stemming from the new Vision of Space Exploration announced by President George W Bush in January 2004 to go to the Moon Mars and beyond This Vision in turn stemmed from a deep reevaluation of NASA's goals in the wake of the Space Shuttle Columbia accident and the recommendations of the Columbia Accident Investigation Board The new goals were seen as initiating a New Age of Exploration and were placed in the context of the importance of exploration and discovery to the American experiences Amazon      Critical issues in the history of spaceflight Steven J. Logsdon,1970 The decision announced by John F Kennedy on May 25 1961 initiating the expedition to the moon is now documented in full for future students of history To John Logsdon whose approach is that of a political scientist examining the influence of men and events on the decision making process the decision to land a man on the moon before this decade is out was wholly political rather than military although overtones of implied defense were useful in obtaining congressional support Moreover he notes it was made without the support of the scientific community although their previous research efforts were expected partially to offset this deterrent Although the success of the Russian manned orbit and the fiasco of the Bay of Pigs invasion certainly influenced the timing in the author's interpretation the Kennedy decision manages to escape the narrow definition of a public relations exhibition In Kennedy's view he emphasizes the security of the country itself was inseparably linked to a position of prestige in world opinion Nor was he a particular enthusiast of space exploration for its own rewards As he remarked to one of his advisors If you had a scientific spectacular on this earth that would be more useful say desalting the ocean or something just as dramatic and convincing as space then we would do that The thoroughness of this book as a historical record is evident throughout NASA historical records and government documents not previously released including several Presidential papers are used in the analysis and the author weaves these records together with subtleties of opinion from interviews with NASA officials and such Kennedy advisors as Theodore Sorenson McGeorge Bundy David Bell and Jerome Wiesner      East West ,1974      Energy Research Abstracts ,1981      Spaceflight Giles Sparrow,2019-05-02 This compelling story of exploration charts and celebrates humankind in space from Sputnik's launch in 1957 through the Apollo Moon landings and the International Space Station to future missions to Mars and beyond Spaceflight chronicles how in the six
