

Apache Tomcat interview questions and answers to evaluate junior administrators

Q

What steps would you take to secure an Apache Tomcat server?

To secure an Apache Tomcat server, several measures can be taken. These include keeping the server and all applications up-to-date with the latest security patches, configuring strong authentication and authorization mechanisms, and securing communication channels using SSL/TLS.

You should also consider disabling unnecessary services and components, configuring proper file permissions, and regularly reviewing security logs for any suspicious activity. Regular backups and implementing a robust firewall policy are also critical.

Look for candidates who demonstrate a comprehensive approach to security and can explain the practical steps they have taken in past roles to secure a Tomcat server. Their response should reflect an understanding of both preventative and detective security measures.
