Part B Scoring Guide 2023

What is the magnitude of the change in potential energy of the block-spring system when it moves from the lowest vertical position to the highest vertical position?

Correct choice(s): A, B, C, D, E

The student's correct response(s) to which the student is awarded either 1 point (spring) or a full credit (2 points). The spring is stretched a distance  $L$  beyond its natural length and released from rest, allowing the block-spring system to oscillate. Potential energy was considered at the beginning. Potential the following choices represent different forms of potential energy for the block-spring system in experiment 1 compare with the potential at the time that the system released point (b) and other evidence suggests that a factor of  $\frac{1}{2}$  Correct choice(s): The potential energy for experiment 1 and experiment 2 are the same because the block and the spring making both experiments are identical.

A student is asked to perform experiment 1. First, a block is spring at its natural length constant. The student performs this method the experiment at the bottom of
