How to Make a Lava Lamp

What Happened

A lava lamp works because of two different scientific principles: density and polarity.

Density is the measurement of how compact a substance is. The denser it is, the more it will sink.

If you mix oil and water, you'll find that the oil is heavier than the water. This is because oil is less dense than water. So it will sink to the bottom of the oil.

When you add food coloring, the color will spread throughout the water. This is because the food coloring is "polar" because it has a positive electrical charge that attracts other things. It is oil molecules, however, are non-polar. They don't have a positive charge, so they are not attracted to the water molecules at all. This is why oil and water don't mix. Instead of mixing, a light color is made. The oil and water will stay in the lamp. The colors will stay in the water. The colors will stay in the water. The colors will stay in the water. The colors will stay in the water.
