Dear Jerry,

Thanks a lot for your reply! It was great to hear from you so soon!

In your letter you asked me about Moscow. Of course I love my native city because it's very beautiful especially in autumn when all trees are of different colours. The heart of Moscow is the Kremlin but my favourite place is the Exhibition Centre, which is famous for its fountain.

I think Moscow is a unique city where history and modern life are brought together. There you can visit different theatres and exhibitions and at the same time take part in celebrating traditional festivals.

By the way, do you often do projects at school? I think it's rather interesting. What clubs have you joined? Are there any traditions in your school?

Hope to hear from you soon.

Love,

Olga

The Psychology of Suicide: From Research Understandings to Intervention and Treatment Yossi Levi-Belz, Yari Gvion, Alan Apter, 2019-07-11 Suicide is a highly complex and multifaceted phenomenon with many contributing and facilitating factors and variables. However, given its being one of the most severe human behaviors, an obvious focus would be to identify the underlying psychological mechanisms and processes that may lead to suicidal ideation and behavior. This eBook is dedicated to studies exploring various approaches to the psychology of suicidal behavior as well as of non-suicidal self-injury (NSSI). The purpose of this eBook is to shed light on in-depth examinations of the current knowledge and empirical data regarding models, theories, and specific dimensions and variables that may help us increase the psychological understanding of suicidal phenomena. The specific goal is to identify particular psychological characteristics that may be used to develop prevention and intervention methods and programs. We believe that this eBook can contribute to the understanding of this behavior and help to develop specific tools, therapeutic guidelines, and programs that may help reduce the number of suicides occurring annually. This eBook is dedicated to our dearest friend Dafni Assaf, who was one of the greatest leaders of the suicide prevention program in Israel.

Connected Healthcare for the Citizen Robert Picard, 2018-11-23 Value of Connected Things for Healthcare is based on feedback from members of the LLSA Forum: patients, healthcare professionals, Living Labs industrialists, researchers, and institutional actors confronted with the design, development, implementation, and use of these types of tools that penetrate health and communicate data. The term "connected object" refers to devices that continuously collect data through these objects, providing the state of health of people wherever they are and whatever they do. These objects allow clinical researchers to study new phenomena that have hitherto escaped observations in institutions. However, the mobilization of these technologies in this context poses technical questions because the requirements of a remote continuous operation are high. What is termed "connected health" emphasizes the human dimension of the subject, i.e., citizens, patients, health professionals, territorial communities, professional networks, institutions, and associations. The questions of who benefits and ethical considerations are paramount to this discussion. Brings awareness of the complexity of connected objects. Presents examples that highlight the use of connected codes. Describes new devices and related services. Identifies the challenges associated with solving these problems.
