

STATE FLOAT

The float is a black box with a leopard print pattern, labeled "North Carolina". It is decorated with various items including a map, a rooster, a landscape photo, a person's photo, a bird, and a boat. Several handwritten notes on black paper are placed around the float, providing information about the state's history, museums, and attractions. The project is set on a wooden table.

Handwritten notes include:

- The flag has a 11 and 13 on either side of the white star because it stands for North Carolina. Until 1895 the flag was slightly different. The lower date was May 20, 1861, the day North Carolina seceded from the Union during the Civil War.
- The North Carolina Museum of Natural Sciences is a landmark because it is the oldest museum in the state. The museum has two buildings known as the Natural Sciences Center and the Science Center. Both the Natural Sciences Center and the Science Center are filled with interactive learning opportunities and educational exhibits.
- One tourist attraction is The Biltmore Estate because it is the largest private home in the United States. The mansion has 250 rooms and it has the Italian Garden. It also has the Rose Garden which features more than 250 varieties.
- North Carolina is called the "Tar Heel State" because of the pitch or tar found in the state. The word "tar" is also found in the name of the state flower, the Carolina Allspice.
- Charlotte is the major city in North Carolina.
- North Carolina's state bird is a cardinal.
