

Jamestown Settlement

Name _____

_____ was the first permanent settlement in the Americas. It was founded on May 4th, 1607 by the first settlers from London.

This settlement in the Colony of Virginia, was located in the country of Tsenacommacah.

Pocahontas was the daughter of the chief of the Powhatan people. She would have been around 12 years old when the new settlers arrived.

She visited the colony often, until Captain Samuel Argall arrived. He captured her, and while waiting for the negotiating of her release, she fell in love with John Rolfe, a tobacco farmer. They married, had a son and moved to London. After becoming sick, she died in March 1617.

Captain John Smith was one person who helped the new colony to succeed. He was taken captive by the Powhatan and then saved by the Chief's daughter, Pocahontas. After this, the relationship between the new settlers and the natives improved.

In 1608, he became the president of the colony. His leadership and experience as a seaman and soldier helped the colony survive. In October, 1609, he was injured and Sir Walter Raleigh was an English explorer and a favorite courtier of Queen Elizabeth I. He was knighted and given a position as captain of the Queen's Guard.

In an effort to find a permanent English settlement in America, he attempted many expeditions to this New World. In 1584, he found Roanoke Island and called it Virginia, after Queen Elizabeth.

After Queen Elizabeth's death, King James I had Sir Walter Raleigh executed for treason.

King James I then granted the Virginia Company permission to establish a British settlement in North America. The Godspeed was one of three ships that left England on the 20th December 1606. With 114 men aboard the three ships, the ships landed at what is now known as Cape Henry, Virginia in 1607.

_____ was one of three ships that left England on the 20th December 1606.

With 114 men aboard the three ships, the ships landed at what is now known as Cape Henry, Virginia in 1607.

The winter after John Smith left was very harsh. With food shortages, leadership troubles and attacks by the Powhatan warriors, the colony struggled. A period of hardship followed, with this time known as Starving Time.

A fleet of nine ships had been sent in July 1609 with supplies for the colony, but they ran into trouble when they hit a hurricane.

Finally, survivors from the ship, Sea Venture, arrived at the fort, to find only 60 colonists still alive.

Even though King James thought smoking and tobacco was a very bad habit, these crops grew well in Virginia. They were also quite popular in Europe, so the Virginian landowners became wealthy in growing and selling _____ tobacco.

The country in which this settlement was located, was ruled by the Powhatan Confederacy. The relationship between the new settlers and the Powhatan natives turned sour and combined with the lack of food, many people died within six months of arriving to the settlement.

On the 15th June, 1607, James Fort was completed. Shaped like a triangle, it had three bulwarks that sported artillery.

The Powhatan villages were located along the banks of rivers. They lived in a hut known as a yehakin that was made from materials that were found in the surrounding environment. With frames made from native trees, the houses were then covered with bark or mats made from marsh reeds.
