Read the passage and answer the questions below.

©workybooks.com

Sharks are ancient and magnificent creatures. They have ruled the oceans for the last 400 million years. You can find sharks in every ocean in the world, and some even live in rivers and lakes. Sharks are made of a flexible material called cartilage. You have cartilage in your ears— that's why they bend! There are more than 500 known species of shark in the world. Some are no larger than your hand, while others can be the size of a school bus. The whale shark is the largest animal on earth and can grow up to 30 ft long. Sadly, shark numbers are decreasing. Each year, millions of sharks are hunted and killed for their fins. Scientists have studied the number of sharks in the ocean and are finding that their population size is decreasing. You can help sharks by learning more about them and spreading awareness— share with someone what you learned in this passage!

1. What are sharks made of? Where can you find this material in humans?

2. Which ocean can you find sharks in?

3. Why are shark numbers decreasing?

Administrative Register ,2011-02 Grading Education Richard Rothstein,2008-12-14 Yes we should hold public schools accountable for effectively spending the vast funds with which they have been entrusted But accountability policies like No Child Left Behind based exclusively on math and reading test scores have narrowed the curriculum misidentified both failing and successful schools and established irresponsible expectations for what schools can accomplish Instead of just grading progress in one or two narrow subjects we should hold schools accountable for the broad outcomes we expect from public education basic knowledge and skills critical thinking an appreciation of the arts physical and emotional health and preparation for skilled employment and then develop the means to measure and ensure schools success in achieving them Grading Education describes a new kind of accountability plan for public education one that relies on higher quality testing focuses on professional evaluation and builds on capacities we already possess This important resource Describes the design of an alternative accountability system that would not corrupt education as does NCLB and its state testing systems Explains the original design of NAEP in the 1960s and shows why it should be revived Defines the broad goals of education beyond math and reading test scores and reports on surveys to confirm public and governmental support for such goals Relates these broad goals of education to the desire for accountability in education El-Hi Textbooks & Serials in Print, 2003 ,2003

Harcourt School Publishers,Isabel L. Beck,2005 Do Accountability and Voucher Threats Improve Low-performing Schools? David N. Figlio,Cecilia Elena Rouse,2008 We study the effects of the threat of school vouchers and school stigma in

Florida on the performance of low performing schools using student level data from a subset of districts Estimates of the change in school level high stakes test scores from the first year of the reform are consistent with the early results used by the state of Florida to claim large scale improvements associated with the threat of voucher assignment However we also find that much of this estimated effect may be due to other factors While we estimate a small relative improvement in reading scores on the high stakes test for voucher threatened stigmatized schools we estimate a much smaller relative improvement on a lower stakes nationally norm referenced test Further the relative gains in reading scores are explained largely by changing student characteristics We find more evidence for a positive differential effect on math test scores on both the low and highstakes tests however the results from the lower stakes test appear primarily limited to students in the high stakes grade Finally we find some evidence that the relative improvements following the introduction of the A Plan by low performing schools were more due to the stigma of receiving the low grade rather than the threat of vouchers Abstract
