Understanding Cause and Effect

11. How did farming change the lives of early Americans?
- _____
- _____
- _____

Many scientists think that people traveled from Asia to North America over this land bridge, but some scientists disagree. They think people may have come from Asia in boats. Coming by boat would have made it easier for people to spread throughout North and South America faster.

No matter how they came, people eventually spread east all the way to the Atlantic Ocean. They also spread south to the southern tip of South America.

When a lot of people move from one area to another like this, it is called migration. People probably traveled in search of food. Early peoples were nomads. Nomads are people who move from place to place, looking for good hunting grounds. Even though these people also ate wild grains and fruits, much of their food came from hunting.

When the first peoples arrived from Asia, they found many animals to hunt. For example, they hunted bison and two animals that looked like elephants—mammoths and mastodons. These people hunted with spears.

Around 15,000 years ago, Earth began to warm. As temperatures rose, glaciers began to melt. The oceans rose, and water covered the Beringia land bridge. This cut Asia off from North America once again. The large animals began to disappear, too. Early Americans had to find other sources of food, which included fish and small animals.

Settlement

Around 10,000 years ago, there was a major change in how people got food: farming. People in what is now Mexico began planting a type of corn called maze. They also grew pumpkins, beans, and squash. These crops gave them a good supply of food. Because they could grow their own food, they did not have to move around anymore. This meant they could spend more time doing other things. Their quality of life got better.
