Committee on Small Business. Subcommittee on Tax, Finance, and Exports,2006 Stress and Coping D M Pestonjee,1992-03-02 Future historians may well label the second half of the twentieth century as the age of speed Certainly there has been an explosion of information in all areas of human activity and a rapid dissemination of knowledge The result has been a growth in expectations which has affected not only individuals but also larger groups like organisations And this in turn leads to stress Even though stress is a much studied phenomenon it still tends to be defined in vague terms and is surrounded by confusion Professor Pestonjee defines stress as occurring when demands on an individual exceed his adjustment resources While stress is generally believed to have a deleterious effect of health and performance recent research has revealed that a minimal level of stress is essential for effective functioning It is the individual's reaction to stress which makes all the difference and may prove to be harmful Professor Pestonjee has divided his review of Indian research on the subject into three parts In the first section he discusses the concept of stress in relation to ancient Indian scriptures and demonstrates that stress is not just a modern phenomenon Subsequently he discusses stress related diseases like bronchial asthma anxiety neuroses and cancer The next section focuses on the different types of stress experienced by individuals in an organisational setting Available research on various professional groups such as nurses teachers women executives and policemen have been discussed in detail to describe the stress experienced by them The last section deals with coping styles or strategies adopted by individuals to deal with stress The author also examines the various personality and organisational variables which act as moderators of stress Since stress is inevitable the author has highlighted several techniques to counteract stress like yoga meditation and relaxation Dealing with a topic which is of great significance to individuals and organisations in the world today this compendium of research will be of immense interest to psychologists management experts trainers counsellors and research scholars Most Good, Least Harm Zoe Weil,2009-01-06 With a world steeped in materialism environmental destruction and injustice what can one individual possibly do to change it While the present obstacles we face may seem overwhelming author and humane educator Zoe Weil shows us that change doesn't have to start with an army It starts with you Through her straightforward approaches to living a MOGO or most good life she reveals that the true path to inner peace doesn't require a retreat from the world. Rather she gives the reader powerful and practicable tools to face these global issues and improve both our planet and our personal lives. Weil explores direct ways to become involved with the community, make better choices as consumers and develop positive messages to live by, showing readers that their simple decisions really can change the world. Inspiring and remarkably inclusive of the interconnected challenges we face today, Most Good Least Harm is the next step beyond green, a radical new way to empower the individual and motivate positive change.
