Reflecting the very latest theory on diversity issues in science education including new dialogic approaches this volume explores the subject from a range of perspectives and draws on studies from around the world The work discusses fundamental topics such as how we conceptualize diversity as well as examining the ways in which heterogeneous cultural constructs influence the teaching and learning of science in a range of contexts Including numerous strategies ready for adoption by interested teachers the book addresses the varied cultural factors that influence engagement with science education It seeks answers to the question of why increasing numbers of students fail to connect with science education in schools and looks at the more subtle impact that students individually constructed identities have on the teaching and learning of science Recognizing the diversity of its audience the book covers differing levels and science subjects and examines material from a range of viewpoints that include pedagogy curricula teacher education learning gender religion and ICT as well as those of in service and trainee teachers at all levels Bringing Communities Together Bev France,Vicki Compton,2012-07-30 Over recent years connective partnerships between educational communities and sectors outside of education have become increasingly popular One significant reason behind this popularity has the expansion of information and communication technologies which have increased access and provided mechanisms for ongoing connections to be made between differing worlds But successful connections that cross cultural boundaries are not easy to establish and even harder to maintain in ways that are mutually beneficial This book focuses on science and technology connective ventures and the complexity inherent in bringing such worlds together The authors have been in the business of developing such connections and this book brings them together to describe how and why making connections can support the science technology education sector the technology science communities and the wider sociocultural life we all inhabit A range of illustrative examples of connections in action provide an empirical basis from which to explore and gain insight into the issues for and potential of such connective ventures alongside a rich mix of critical commentary arguments cautions and challenges Five key principles have been distilled from the collective experience and wisdom of the authors serving to capture that which underpins effective and efficient connective initiatives Each principle is accompanied by a set of questions that reflect the issues raised and successes illustrated throughout the book It is hoped these principles and questions will serve to guide people interested in developing funding and or participating in future connective initiatives in the fields of science and technology Resources in Education ,1997 Children's Books in Print, 2007 ,2006 Testing Our Children Monty Neill,1997 The Science Teacher ,1999 SCC Library has 1964 cur An Assessment of Resource Studies in Canadian Schools Michael John Fox,1997 Best Books for Children, Preschool Through Grade 6 ,2006 SRA Open Court Reading ,2002 Measurement and Evaluation in Physical Education and Exercise Science Alan C.
