

Activity 7.23: Role Reversals

Process Overview

This lesson involves students in a design and critique activity using different communication tools to share their engineering solutions. The emphasis of activities will vary based on grade level.

This activity requires students to engage in a process of identifying engineering design information and then use that information to generate the appropriate communication tools to share their engineering designs.

For this activity, you will need to provide students with engineering designs. Encourage them to analyze the designs for engineering and communication purposes. Once students have analyzed the designs, have them generate and present.

Process Overview

1. Encourage your students to analyze the engineering designs that you have provided.
2. Encourage your students to identify what is the purpose of the engineering designs.
3. Encourage your students to analyze the engineering designs for engineering and communication purposes.
4. Encourage your students to generate the appropriate communication tools.
