

CHAPTER 1

THERE WAS NO POSSIBILITY of taking a walk that day. We had been wandering, indeed, in the leafless scrubbery as late in the morning, but since dinner Ours. feed, when there was no company, dried early the cold winter wind had penetrated, that further outdoor exercise was now out of the question.

I was glad of it. I never liked long walks, especially on chilly afternoons: devoted to me was the coming home in the raw twilight, with ripped fingers and toes, and a heart saddened by the chidings of Bessie, the nurse, and humbled by the consciousness of my physical inferiority to Eliza, John, and Georgiana Reed.

The said Eliza, John, and Georgiana were now doctored round their mama in the drawing-room: she lay reclined on a sofa by the fireside, and with her darlings about her (for the time

Knowing with New Media Lena Redman,2018-11-21 This cutting edge book considers how advances in technologies and new media have transformed our perception of education and focuses on the impact of the privatisation of digital tools as a mean of knowledge production Arguing that education needs to adapt to the modern learner the book s unique approach is based on a disassociation with the deeply ingrained attitude with which people have traditionally viewed education learning the existing symbolic systems of certain disciplines and then expressing themselves strictly within the operational modes of these systems The ways of knowledge production exploring recording representing making meaning of and sharing human experiences have been fundamentally transformed through the infusion of digital technologies into all aspects of human activity allowing learners to engage with their immediate natural social and cultural environments by capitalising on their individual abilities and interests This book proposes a new approach to teaching and learning termed cinematic bricolage which involves generating knowledge from heterogeneous resources in a do it yourself manner while making meaning through multimodal representations It shows how cinematic bricolage reconnects ways of knowing with ways of being empowering the individual with a sense of personal identity and responsibility helping to shape more aware social citizens
