Agricultural Sciences Paper 2 November Exampler 2013:

Depoliticisation before Neoliberalism Adriejan van Veen, Theo Jung, 2026-01-01 This book analyses processes of depoliticisation in modern Europe from the emergence of a distinct political sphere in the late eighteenth century until the present day. Drawing on case studies from across the continent it demonstrates that depoliticisation has played an integral part in the contestation of modern politics since its inception. Developing a novel conceptual framework the authors argue that depoliticisation is much more than a simple negation of politics. Rather than an anonymous and amorphous process depoliticisation often presents an express actor driven effort with modes and forms no less varied than the more familiar manifestations of politicisation. Consequently the chapters encompass a whole range of depoliticising discursive strategies performative practices and institutional rearrangements playing out across different regime types from revolutionary orders and representative governments with limited franchises to mass democracies and totalitarian dictatorships. Illustrating how historical actors understood the political and in which ways they intervened to renegotiate its boundaries this book seeks to enhance our understanding of modern politics and pose questions that still resonate today. At a time when the boundaries of the political are once more heavily contested this book offers thought provoking insights that will appeal to scholars of history political science and sociology as well as to activists and political practitioners.

Leveraging Gender, Youth and Social Networks for Inclusive and Transformative Livestock Production in the Tropics and Subtropics Stefan Burkart, Renee Marie Bullock, Juan Andrés Cardoso Arango, Marcela Ramos, Natalia Triana Angel, 2024-10-14 Social research has provided critical insights into understanding gender and generational gaps and the ways that power relations create differentiated access to agricultural and livestock technologies and services. Many of these technologies and services such as improved feed options grass legume associations silvo pastoral systems improved animal genetics health and welfare grazing management and associated water and soil health and manure management have the potential to improve livelihoods sustainability food security and generational transfer dynamics. Their adoption contributes to mitigating many of the impacts the livestock sector has on the environment through for example reducing greenhouse gas emissions and deforestation increasing biodiversity restoration and land sparing. Likewise their adoption helps producers adapt to climate change.

The Virtue of Hope Nancy E. Snow, Lewis Ricardo Gordon, 2024 What is hope? In the history of western philosophy to the present day there is tremendous disagreement about the answer to this seemingly simple question. Contemporary philosophical literature on hope on the subject is robust complex and full of interesting debates. Whether hope is good or bad and whether we should focus not on hope but on hopes hoping or hopefulness as some contemporary philosophers argue are contested questions. This volume features eleven chapters by scholars from different disciplines each providing a unique perspective on hope. It includes discussion and analysis of classical texts Judeo Christian traditions non religious contexts epistemology existentialism Black oppression Zen Buddhism eschatology theological anthropology psychology and optimism culture.

education theory and climate change Hardly any stones are left unturned in this interdisciplinary collection of one of philosophy's most vexing virtues The study of hope is ongoing in many fields This volume will be useful to scholars in a variety of disciplines who wish to learn more about hope and to contribute to the myriad discussions currently taking place

Agroecology in Policy and Practice Rachel Bezner Kerr, Hans Rudolf Herren, Barbara Gemmill-Herren, Caterina Batello Cattaneo, Franz-Theo Gottwald, 2023-10-13 In the past years there has been steady growth in work relating to agroecology People centred knowledge intensive and rooted to sustainability it is now well established that agroecology matches the transformative approach called for by the 2030 Agenda a transition to sustainable food and agriculture systems that ensures food security and nutrition for all provides social and economic equity and conserves biodiversity and the ecosystem services on which agriculture depends Although not a new concept agroecology is today gaining interest worldwide among a wide range of actors as an effective answer to climate change and the interrelated challenges facing food systems finding expression in the practices of food producers in grassroots social processes for sustainability and the public policies of many countries around the world

Bulletin, 2013 Stories on Skin Terry Baxter, Libby Coyner-Tsosie, 2025-01-23 Helping expand archival studies into impermanent media like body art this book suggests that archiving must be considered a form of storytelling Tattoos are not merely decorative they contain deep meaning for individuals and communities They document their wearers personal histories and position in families or society and they engage with a communal understanding of symbols This unique book makes the case that archivists who want to preserve as full a human story as possible must recognize the rich documentation provided by tattoos It also argues in a broader sense that traditional archives are not representative of the ways human beings transmit information through time and that they must be augmented by other types of storytelling to provide a more complete record of our species Authors Baxter and Coyner touch on timely topics such as historical narratives storytelling cultural traditions the body as a text social control and memorialization by considering tattoos as a personal and community archive Discussing tattoos as a storytelling tool the authors also challenge how history is kept and who gets included Stories on Skin is committed to the rights of communities to tell their stories in their own way and to the power that right brings
