Conceptual Modeling - ER 2002 Stefano Spaccapietra, Salvatore March, Yahiko Kambayashi, 2003-06-30 For more than 20 years the series of Conceptual Modeling ER conferences has provided a forum for research communities and practitioners to present and share research results and practical experiences in the fields of database design and conceptual modeling. Throughout the years the scope of these conferences has extended from database design and specific topics of that area to more universal or related conceptual modeling organizing originally weak or ill structured information or knowledge in more cultured ways by applying various kinds of principles abstract models and theories for different purposes. At the same time many technically oriented approaches have been developed which aim to facilitate the implementation of rather advanced conceptual models. Conceptual modeling is based on the process of conceptualization and it is the core of system structuring as well as justification for information systems development. It supports and facilitates the understanding, explanation, prediction and reasoning on information and knowledge and their manipulation in the systems in addition to understanding and designing the functions of the systems. The conceptualization process aims at constructing concepts relevant for the knowledge and information system in question. Concepts in the human mind and concept descriptions in computerized information systems are quite different things by nature but both should be taken into account in conceptual modeling. Usually concept descriptions are properly observed but concepts in the human mind and their properties are often neglected quite carelessly.

The Core Leigh A. Bortins, 2010-06-08

In the past, correct spelling, the multiplication tables, the names of the state capitals and the American presidents were basics that all children were taught in school. Today, many children graduate without this essential knowledge. Most curricula today follow a haphazard sampling of topics with a focus on political correctness instead of teaching students how to study.

Bortins a leading figure in the homeschooling community is having none of it She believes that there are core areas of knowledge that are essential to master Without knowing the multiplication tables children can't advance to algebra Without mastery of grammar students will have difficulty expressing themselves Without these essential building blocks of knowledge students may remember information but they will never possess a broad and deep understanding of how the world works In The Core Bortins gives parents the tools and methodology to implement a rigorous thorough and broad curriculum based on the classical model including Rote memorization to cement knowledge Systematic learning of geography historical facts and timelines Reading the great books and seminal historical documents instead of adaptations and abridged editions Rigorous training in math and the natural sciences Consumers Index to Product Evaluations and Information Sources ,2000
