STRAW ROCKET LAUNCH

STEM Challenge

Overview: For this task, you will create and test straw rockets using straws and paper, exploring how altering their shapes and sizes influences their flight and altitude characteristics.

Materials:

- Plastic straws
- Paper
- Tape
- Scissors
- Small toy balls or paper clips for weight variation
- Ruler
- Markers or crayons

Procedure:

- Build Construction: Take a straw of paper and cut it into a rectangular shape. The size can vary, but you can fold an 8.5 by 11 paper horizontally and vertically and cut along the line. Roll the paper around a straw, ensuring it is snug but not too tight. Use tape to secure the paper, forming the body of the rocket. Seal one end of the paper tube by taping or tying it securely.
- Design Variation: Create multiple rockets with different designs. Experiment with altering the slope of the nose (conical part), the length of the rocket, or adding fins, line markers or crayons to decorate and label each rocket for easy identification.
- Launching Procedure: Find an open outdoor space, free from obstacles or people, to conduct the launches safely. Hold the rocket by the non-sealed end and blow into the straw forcefully to launch it.
- Flight Observations: Observe and measure the flight distance and altitude for each rocket design. Use measuring tape to determine how high and far they travel to the best of your ability. Record your observations about the flight patterns, stability, and any noticeable differences between designs.

Blank lined paper for recording observations and data.
