Kunihiko Kodaira, The achievement of Japanese high school students gained world prominence largely as a result of their performance in the International Mathematics Studies conducted by the International Association for the Evaluation of Educational Achievement in the 1960s and 1980s. These textbooks Mathematical World volumes 8 to 11 are intended to give US educators and researchers a first hand look at the content of mathematics instruction in Japan. The textbook Japanese Grade 10 covers material that is compulsory. This course which is completed by over 97% of all Japanese students is taught four hours per week and comprises algebra including quadratic functions, equations and inequalities, trigonometric functions and coordinate geometry. Japanese Grade 11 is intended for the easier of the electives offered in that grade and is taken by about 40% of the students. It covers probability and statistics, vectors, exponential, logarithmic and trigonometric functions and an introduction to differentiation and integration. The other 60% of students in grade 11 concurrently take two more extensive courses using the texts Japanese Grade 11 Algebra and Geometry and Japanese Grade 11 Basic Analysis. The first consists of fuller treatments of plane and solid coordinate geometry, vectors and matrices. The second includes a more thorough treatment of trigonometry and a more extensive introduction to differential and integral calculus.

Self-directed

Learning Oriented Assessments in the Asia-Pacific Magdalena Mo Ching Mok, 2012-10-09 The Asia Pacific region needs to maximize the benefits of education to enable it to compete in an economic future dominated by innovation in which assessing student progress must be an empowering rather than delimiting factor. This detailed exposition of the theoretical basis and application tools of self directed learning oriented assessment SLOA reflects the very latest research championed by the Assessment Research Centre at The Hong Kong Institute of Education. Featuring a range of relevant case studies it explores the varied theoretical issues related to SLOA and offers an integrated view of the system fully in line with the constructivist paradigm of learning which advocates formative rather than summative assessment. Many of the initiatives outlined here are firsts in the region. SLOA is already being applied in many schools with links to the ARC. It is an approach to assessment that acknowledges the centrality of self directed learning and which positions assessment as a tool to enable and enhance self directed learning It draws on several theories of learning and assessment including the constructivist notion that learning is best achieved when students take ownership of their educational process setting their own goals and monitoring their own progress towards those goals SLOA has been the research and service approach of the ARC since 2005 In the intervening years the centre has developed a number of tools to facilitate SLOA learning and assessment including vertical ability scales teacher friendly computer software and packages for self directed learning
