Multiple Approaches to Intelligent Systems Ibrahim F. Imam, Yves Kodratoff, Ayman El-Dessouki, Moonis Ali, 2004-05-19 We never create anything We discover and reproduce The Twelfth International Conference on Industrial and Engineering Applications of Artificial Intelligence and Expert Systems has a distinguished theme It is concerned with bridging the gap between the academic and the industrial worlds of Artificial Intelligence AI and Expert Systems The academic world is mainly concerned with discovering new algorithms approaches and methodologies however the industrial world is mainly driven by profits and concerned with producing new products or solving customers problems Ten years ago the artificial intelligence research gap between academia and industry was very broad Recently this gap has been narrowed by the emergence of new fields and new joint research strategies in academia Among the new fields which contributed to the academic industrial convergence are knowledge representation machine learning searching reasoning distributed AI neural networks data mining intelligent agents robotics pattern recognition vision applications of expert systems and others It is worth noting that the end results of research in these fields are usually products rather than empirical analyses and theoretical proofs Applications of such technologies have found great success in many domains including fraud detection internet service banking credit risk and assessment telecommunication etc Progress in these areas has encouraged the leading corporations to institute research funding programs for academic institutes Others have their own research laboratories some of which produce state of the art research

Programming Languages: Implementations, Logics, and Programs Hugh Glaser, Peter Hartel, Herbert Kuchen, 1997-08-13 This volume constitutes the refereed proceedings of the 9th International Symposium on Programming Languages Implementations Logics and Programs PLILP 97 held in Southampton UK in September 1997 including a special track on Declarative Programming in Education The volume presents 25 revised full papers selected from 68 submissions Also included are one invited paper and three posters The papers are devoted to exploring the relation between implementation techniques the logic of the languages and the use of the languages in constructing real programs Topics of interest include implementation of declarative concepts integration of paradigms program analysis and transformation programming environments executable specifications reasoning about language constructs etc

Hermenegildo,J. Maluszynski,2006-12-31

Coordinating production across a supply chain designing a new VLSI chip allocating classrooms or scheduling maintenance crews at an airport are just a few examples of complex combinatorial problems that can be modeled as a set of decision variables whose values are subject to a set of constraints The decision variables may be the time when production of a particular lot will start or the plane that a maintenance crew will be working on at a given time Constraints may range from the number of students you can fit in a given classroom to the time it takes to transfer a lot from one plant to another Despite advances in computing power many forms of these and other combinatorial problems have continued to defy conventional programming approaches

Constraint Logic Programming CLP first emerged in the mid eighties as a programming technique with the potential of significantly reducing the time it takes to develop practical solutions to many of these problems by combining the expressiveness of languages such as Prolog with the computational power of constrained search While the roots of CLP can be traced to Monash University in Australia it is without any doubt in Europe that this new software technology has gained the most prominence benefiting among other things from sustained funding from both industry and public R D programs over the past dozen years These investments have already paid off resulting in a number of popular commercial solutions as well as the creation of several successful European startups Seloc Mercury/Mariner Outboards, 1990-00 Repair Manual Scott A.
