A Level November 2014 Zimse Economics Questions:

Extractive Industry Indigenisation in Zimbabwe Kennedy Manduna,2025-09-25 This book explains how and why Zimbabwe's extractive industry Indigenisation over promised its benefits yet under delivered upon implementation This book traces the history of uneven development in Zimbabwe from the initial days of colonialism to the present using the extractive industry as the unit of analysis to carve out a granular and empirical analysis of the preponderance of transnational corporate control and ownership in the country Indigenisation of Zimbabwe's extractive industries was intended to address mining inequalities by transferring wealth from rich non Indigenous mining capital to disadvantaged Indigenous citizens and communities This policy however was a response to political economic and social crises posed by the international isolation of Zimbabwe's government following the controversial Fast Track Land Reform Programme in 2000 2003 An intervention therefore which promised to address inequalities has thus been hampered by corruption co optation and collusion which has led to it not only failing to address uneven development but in actual fact worsening the situation By examining the hidden structures and infrastructures of power capital and minerals and placing extractive industry Indigenisation in capitalism this book makes a crucial scholarly contribution to the renewed and burgeoning debates around the resurgence of resource nationalism in general and the struggle for economic sovereignty in particular This book steers readers more broadly to look for new and diversified ways of empowering Indigenous populations and their communities through mining Indigenisation in ways that do not threaten economic and political stability This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of the extractive industries natural resource management African politics and African development

Integral Green Zimbabwe Elizabeth Mamukwa,Ronnie Lessem,Alexander Schieffer,2016-05-23 Integral Green Zimbabwe An African Phoenix Rising by Ronnie Lessem Alexander Schieffer and Liz Mamukwa is the first book in the Integral Green Society and Economy series a series which has three overarching aims The first aim is to link together two major movements of our time one philosophical the other practical The philosophical movement is towards what many today are calling an integral age while the practical is the green movement duly aligned with that of sustainable development The second is to blend together elements of nature and community culture and spirituality science and technology politics and economics thus serving to bring about an integral green vision albeit with a focus on business and economics As such the authors transcend the limitations to sustainable development and environmental economics which are overly ecological if not also technological in orientation and exclude social and cultural elements Thirdly this particular volume focuses specifically on Zimbabwe as well as Southern Africa drawing on the particular issues and capacities that this country and region represents The emphasis on Zimbabwe and Southern Africa transpired not only because two of the editors Lessem and Mamukwa are Zimbabwean in origin but because Zimbabwe is today like a phoenix rising from the ashes and has the opportunity to recreate itself anew

Informal Migrant Entrepreneurship and Inclusive Growth in South Africa, Zimbabwe and Mozambique Crush, Jonathan,2017-01-17 While increasing attention is being paid to the drivers and forms of entrepreneurship in informal economies much less of this policy and research focus is directed at understanding the links between mobility and informality This report examines the current state of knowledge about this relationship with particular reference to three countries Mozambique South Africa and Zimbabwe and four cities Cape Town Harare Johannesburg and Maputo identifying major themes knowledge gaps research questions and policy implications Statistical Tragedy in Africa? Morten Jerven,Deborah Johnston,2017-10-02 What do we know about economic development in Africa The answer is that we know much less than we would like to think This collection assesses the knowledge problem present in statistics on poverty agriculture labour education health and economic growth While diverse in origin the contributors to this book are unified in two conclusions the quality and quantity of data needs to be improved and this is a concern not just for statisticians Weaknesses in statistical methodology and practice can misinform policy makers international agencies donors the private sector and the citizens of African countries themselves This is also a problem for academics from various disciplines from history and economics to social epidemiology and education policy Not only does academic work on Africa regularly use flawed data but many problems encountered in surveys challenge common academic abstractions By exploring these flaws this book will provide a guide for scholars policy makers and all those using and commissioning surveys in Africa This book was originally published as a special issue of The Journal of Development Studies

Why States Recover Greg Mills,2015-01-03 State failure takes many forms Somalia offers one extreme The country s prolonged civil war led to the collapse of central authority with state control devolving to warlord led factions that competed for the spoils of local commerce political power and international aid Malawi on the other hand is at the other end of the scale During President Bingu s second term in office the country s economy collapsed as a result of poor policies and Bingu s brand of personal politics On the surface Malawi s economy seemed largely stable underneath however the polity was fractured and the economy broken In between these two extremes of state failure are all manner of examples many of which Mills explores in the fascinating and profoundly personal Why States Recover Throughout he returns to his key questions how do countries recover What roles should both insiders and outsiders play to aid that process Drawing on research in more than thirty countries and incorporating interviews with a dozen leaders Mills examines state failure and identifies instances of recovery in Latin America Asia and Africa For anyone interested in the reasons behind states failure and remedies to ensure future economic stability it is important reading Yearbook of International Organizations 2014-2015, Volumes 1a & 1b \(Set\) Union of International Associations,2014-06-16 Volume 1 A and B covers international organizations throughout the world comprising their aims activities and events Anti-Cartel Enforcement in a Contemporary Age Caron Beaton-Wells,Christopher Tran,2015-09-24 Leniency policies are seen as a revolution in contemporary anti cartel law enforcement Unique to competition law these policies are regarded as essential to detecting punishing and deterring business collusion conduct that subverts competition at national and global levels Featuring contributions from leading scholars practitioners and enforcers from around the world this book probes the almost universal adoption and zealous defence of leniency policies by many competition authorities and others It charts the origins of and impetuses for the leniency movement captures key insights from academic research and practical experience relating to the operation and effectiveness of leniency policies and examines leniency from the perspectives of corporate and individual applicants advisers and authorities The book also explores debates surrounding the intersections between leniency and other crucial elements of the enforcement system such as compensation compliance and criminalisation The rich critical analysis in the book draws on the disciplines of law regulation economics and criminology It makes a substantial and distinctive contribution to the literature on a topic that is highly significant to a wide range of actors in the field of competition law and business regulation generally From the Foreword by Professor Fr d ric Jenny fundamental questions are raised and thoroughly discussed in this book which is undoubtedly the most comprehensive scholarly work on leniency policies produced so far the book should be required reading for all seeking to acquire a deeper insight into the issues related to leniency policy It is a priceless contribution

Carbon Conflicts and Forest Landscapes in Africa Melissa Leach,Ian Scoones,2015-06-05

Amidst the pressing challenges of global climate change the last decade has seen a wave of forest carbon projects across the world designed to conserve and enhance forest carbon stocks in order to reduce carbon emissions from deforestation and offset emissions elsewhere Exploring a set of new empirical case studies Carbon Conflicts and Forest Landscapes in Africa examines how these projects are unfolding their effects and who is gaining and losing Situating forest carbon approaches as part of more general moves to address environmental problems by attaching market values to nature and ecosystems it examines how new projects interact with forest landscapes and their longer histories of intervention The book asks what difference does carbon make What political and ecological dynamics are unleashed by these new commodified marketized approaches and how are local forest users experiencing and responding to them The book s case studies cover a wide range of African ecologies project types and national political economic contexts By examining these cases in a comparative framework and within an understanding of the national regional and global institutional arrangements shaping forest carbon commoditisation the book provides a rich and compelling account of how and why carbon conflicts are emerging and how they might be avoided in future This book will be of interest to students of development studies environmental sciences geography economics development studies and anthropology as well as practitioners and policy makers
