Form and Function of Paris Representation in Hemingway's A Moveable Feast Olga Nikitina, 2007-12 Seminar paper from the year 2007 in the subject American Studies Literature grade 1.3 University of Bonn language English abstract A Moveable Feast deals with the years 1921 to 1926 spent by Hemingway as a young man at the beginning of his literary career in Paris He started to write it in 1958 and it actually remained unfinished when he committed suicide in 1961 Taking into account the fact that at that time Hemingway had already written all his best books that in 1953 he was awarded The Pulitzer Prize and in 1954 the Nobel Prize for Literature one could suppose that the book was written by a successful and confident author who looked back at his young years with a gentle smile sort of how it all started probably not without nostalgia But if one takes a closer look at Hemingway's biography one finds out that the Paris book was being written by the rapidly ageing Ernest Svoboda p 159 in the midst of health problems and family pressure probably foreseeing the end of his literary career suffering from continuous depressions and paranoia Add to all this repercussions of the two plane crashes which he survived and the loss of the mother Pauline Hemingway and his close friend and editor Charles Scribner and you will be able to imagine probably quite remotely what Hemingway's state of mind really was while he was writing the book in question What could be the message of the book written under such circumstances at the top of the literary career and facing the gap of despair Was it an attempt to explain to himself what he had done wrong with his life to calculate what had been lost and what had been gained during Paris years or to prove that in spite of increasing difficulties with writing he is still a great writer Was he trying to show what had made him the kind of writer he was and as he desperately hoped still kept him on the top or was he simply recollecting the old happy times in order to forget the present frustration A Quicklet on Ernest Hemingway's A Moveable Feast (CliffNotes-like Summary) Vivian Wagner, 2012-02-24 ABOUT THE BOOK I first read Hemingway's posthumously published memoir A Moveable Feast 1964 when I was spending my junior year abroad studying at the University of Exeter in England and I fell in love with the book I think it appealed to me especially since I imagined myself to be like Hemingway and his friends an expatriate at least for those nine months It's an exquisitely readable book peppered with all sorts of literary figures I knew through English classes Gertrude Stein Ezra Pound F Scott Fitzgerald and Ford Madox Ford There is nothing better for a young reader than to learn the secrets and hear the voices of writers known only through their novels stories and poems A Moveable Feast brings them and the 1920s Parisian literary culture that surrounded them alive MEET THE AUTHOR professional writer Vivian Wagner has wide ranging interests from technology and business to music and motorcycles She writes features regularly for ECT News Network and her work has also appeared in American Profile Entrepreneur Bluegrass Unlimited and many other publications She is also the author of Fiddle One Woman Four Strings and 8 000 Miles of Music Citadel 2010 For more about her visit her website at www.vivianwagner.net EXCERPT FROM THE BOOK A Moveable Feast is an episodic book with short chapters devoted to various people themes and locations important to Hemingway during the period he and Hadley lived in Paris from 1921 to 1926 The book is roughly chronological beginning when Hemingway and Hadley first arrive in Paris and ending when Hemingway has an affair and their marriage begins to fall apart The book's first chapter is called A Good Caf on the Place St Michel and it gives readers a first glimpse into the world that Hemingway inhabits He describes how he's writing about Michigan and his boyhood while being in the caf and the perspective he has in this opening scene encapsulates the expatriate perspective he has throughout the book I was writing about up in Michigan and since it was a wild cold blowing day it was that sort of day in the story Buy a copy to keep reading Form and function of Paris representation in Hemingway's "A Moveable Feast" Olga Nikitina, 2007-12-18 Seminar paper from the year 2007 in the subject American Studies Literature grade 1.3 University of Bonn language English abstract A Moveable Feast deals with the years 1921 to 1926 spent by Hemingway as a young man at the beginning of his literary career in Paris He started to write it in 1958 and it actually remained unfinished when he committed suicide in 1961 Taking into account the fact that at that time Hemingway had already written all his best books that in 1953 he was awarded The Pulitzer Prize and in 1954 the Nobel Prize for Literature one could suppose that the book was written by a successful and confident author who looked back at his young years with a gentle smile sort of how it all started probably not without nostalgia But if one takes a closer look at Hemingway's biography one finds out that the Paris book was being written by the rapidly ageing Ernest Svoboda p 159 in the midst of health problems and family pressure probably foreseeing the end of his literary career suffering from continuous depressions and paranoia Add to all this repercussions of the two plane crashes which he survived and the loss of the mother Pauline Hemingway and his close friend and editor Charles Scribner and you will be able to imagine probably quite remotely what Hemingway's state of mind really was while he was writing the book in question What could be the message of the book written under such circumstances at the top of the literary career and facing the gap of despair Was it an attempt to explain to himself what he had done wrong with his life to calculate what had been lost and what had been gained during Paris years or to prove that in spite of increasing difficulties with writing he is still a great writer Was he trying to show what had made him the kind of writer he was and as he desperately hoped still kept him on the top or was he simply recollecting the old happy times in order to forget the present frustration And what is the function of the main character of the Paris book Paris itself In the following work we shall try to answer the last question as well as we can Ernest Hemingway's a Moveable Feast Ernest Hemingway, 1965
