PLANNING A SCHOOL PICNIC

PERFORMANCE TASK

OVERVIEW

Your task is to help the school cafeteria manager plan the right amounts of food for the annual school picnic. Your goal is to determine the quantity of each food item needed based on the total number of attendees and their dietary preferences. You will apply skills like ratio-proportions, calculating ratios, and interpreting those values to make an informed decision.

TASK 101

The ratio of vegetarians to non-vegetarians students in the cafeteria is 2:3. If there are 210 students in the cafeteria, determine how many students are vegetarians and how many are non-vegetarians.

TASK 102

The cafeteria manager plans to serve two dishes for the picnic, a vegetarian chicken salad and a chicken sandwich. For the vegetarian students, the manager plans to prepare 2 pasta salads per student. For the non-vegetarian students, the manager plans to prepare 1 chicken sandwich and 1 pasta salad per student. Calculate how many of each dish the manager needs to prepare.

Numerical Development - From cognitive functions to neural underpinnings Korbinian Moeller, Elise Klein, Klaus F Willmes - von Hinckeldey, Karin Kucian, 2015-02-24 Living at the beginning of the 21st century requires being numerate because numerical abilities are not only essential for life prospects of individuals but also for economic interests of post industrial knowledge societies Thus numerical development is at the core of both individual as well as societal interests There is the notion that we are already born with a very basic ability to deal with small numerosities Yet this often called number sense seems to be very restricted approximate and driven by perceptual constraints During our numerical development in formal e g school but also informal contexts e g family street we acquire culturally developed abstract symbol systems to represent exact numerosities in particular number words and Arabic digits refining our numerical capabilities In recent years numerical development has gained increasing research interest documented in a growing number of behavioural neuro scientific educational cross cultural and neuropsychological studies addressing this issue Additionally our understanding of how numerical competencies develop has also benefitted considerably from the advent of different neuro imaging techniques allowing for an evaluation of developmental changes in the human brain In sum we are now starting to put together a more and more coherent picture of how numerical competencies develop and how this development is associated with neural changes as well. In the end this knowledge might also lead to a better understanding of the reasons for atypical numerical development which often has grievous consequences for those who suffer from developmental dyscalculia or mathematics learning disabilities. Therefore this Research Topic deals with all aspects of numerical development findings from behavioural performance to underlying neural substrates from cross sectional to longitudinal evaluations from healthy to clinical populations. To this end we included empirical contributions using different experimental methodologies but also theoretical contributions review articles or opinion papers

The Important Role of the Early School Years for Reading, Writing and Math Development: Assessment and Intervention at School Entry Christoph Weber, Martin

Schöfl, Susanne Seifert, Natalie Förster, 2025-12-01 School entry is a critical life event for young children. Students begin this new phase of their lives with very different abilities due to their individual characteristics previous experiences and education. While some children hardly know any letters or numbers others can already read write and calculate quite fluently. To optimally support young learners according to their respective starting conditions teachers must recognize students learning prerequisites and adapt instruction to students needs. To this end both valid and economical assessments as well as

In particular this Research Topic aims to bring together research that directly contributes to assessing children's difficulties and providing evidence based support. We highly welcome new innovative approaches from the fields of education didactics and psychology that focus on the assessment and assessment based instruction in reading writing and maths. Any empirical studies that help to improve the assessment and assessment based interventions for the competencies mentioned are welcome. We are looking for empirical quantitative or qualitative studies dealing with the target group of children around the age of school entry last year of kindergarten to second grade elementary school that include at least one of the following topics the presentation or testing of new assessment procedures that focus on performance in and prerequisites for reading writing and maths assessment based interventions both whole class or individual approaches in reading writing and maths
