RNA polymerase II

- Requires transcription factors
 - Binding causes dramatic local distortion in the DNA double helix
 - Landmark for other proteins to assemble at the promoter
 - Once all factors are assembled with pol II transcription initiation occurs and pol II is released to continue RNA synthesis. Happens due to phosphorylating its tail by the kinase activity associated with TFIIF (opens double helix)
 - After finishing transcription, pol II is released from DNA, dephosphorylated by a phosphatase and made ready for another transcription initiation.
- TATA boxes
 - Upstream of the transcription start site
 - TBP: TATA binding protein

RNA processing purpose

- Introns eliminated
- Transport to proper site
- Translationability
- Half-life determination

Environmental Literacy in Science and Society Roland W. Scholz, Claudia R. Binder, 2011-07-21 In an era where humans affect virtually all of the earth's processes, questions arise about whether we have sufficient knowledge of human-environment interactions. How can we sustain the Earth's ecosystems to prevent collapses and what roles should practitioners and scientists play in this process? These are the issues central to the concept of environmental literacy. This unique book provides a comprehensive review and analysis of environmental literacy within the context of environmental science and sustainable development. Approaching the topic from multiple perspectives, it explores the development of human understanding of the environment and human-environment interactions in the fields of biology, psychology, sociology, economics and industrial ecology. The discussion emphasises the importance of knowledge integration and transdisciplinary processes as key strategies for understanding complex human-environment systems. HES In addition, the author defines the HES framework as a template for investigating sustainably coupled human-environment systems in the 21st century.
