Great expectations pt. 2, and Master Humphrey's clock Charles Dickens,1890

Queen of Winter Alix James, Winter is a curse bringing nothing but cold and darkness Until he meets the Queen Elizabeth Bennet is at the end of her strength A frantic search for her missing sister Lydia has led her into danger she could never have imagined Alone injured and lost she stumbles into a snowstorm and loses hope And then she loses consciousness Fitzwilliam Darcy has finally found a chance to avenge himself on George Wickham When word comes that Wickham is on his way to Gretna Green to elope Darcy seizes the opportunity to follow him and bring him to justice However a storm from nowhere forces him to leave his carriage on the road and make his way to whatever shelter he can find Along the way almost hidden in the snow he finds a woman more dead than alive No one knows who she is and most think she will not live through the night As Darcy fights to save his mystery woman and nurse her back to health the possibility of catching Wickham is slipping through his fingers With the roads impassable Darcy's only hope is that Wickham is similarly delayed All he can do is wait and try to keep from going mad He turns his attention to the woman under his care and finds a friend a kindred spirit and possibly something warmer and richer With Elizabeth Bennet at his side perhaps there is more to life than bleakness and duty When the roads clear will they be able to find George Wickham in time to save Lydia Bennet and keep Darcy's family from disgrace And will the heavy frost settle once more over Darcy's heart or will hope melt the snow at last Queen of Winter is a clean winter themed Regency Novella of approximately 20 000 words and is Book 2 of the Sweet Sentiments Series

Charles Dickens,1879 A Year in Peshawur, and a Lady's Ride Into the Khyber Pass L. R. Trevelyan,1880 A Lady's Four Perils James McGrigor Allan,1888 Manhood and the American Renaissance David Leverenz,2019-06-30

In the view of David Leverenz such nineteenth century American male writers as Emerson Hawthorne Melville Thoreau and Whitman were influenced more profoundly by the popular model of the entrepreneurial man of force than they were by their literary precursors and contemporaries Drawing on the insights of feminist theory gender studies psychoanalytical criticism and social history Manhood and the American Renaissance demonstrates that gender pressures and class conflicts played as critical a role in literary creation for the male writers of nineteenth century America as they did for the women writers Leverenz interprets male American authors in terms of three major ideologies of manhood linked to the social classes in the Northeast patrician artisan and entrepreneurial He asserts that the older ideologies of patrician gentility and of artisan independence were being challenged from 1820 to 1860 by the new middle class ideology of competitive individualism The male writers of the American Renaissance patrician almost without exception in their backgrounds and self expectations were fascinated yet horrified by the aggressive materialism and the rivalry for dominance they witnessed in the undeferential new men In close readings of the works both of well known male literary figures and of then popular authors such as Richard Henry Dana Jr and Francis Parkman Leverenz discovers a repressed center of manhood beset by fears of humiliation and masochistic fantasies He discerns different patterns in the works of Whitman with his artisan's background and Frederick Douglass who rose from artisan freedom to entrepreneurial power Emphasizing the interplay of class and gender Leverenz also considers how women viewed manhood He concludes that male writers portrayed manhood as a rivalry for dominance but contemporary female writers saw it as patriarchy Two chapters contrast the work of the genteel writers Sarah Hale and Caroline Kirkland with the evangelical works of Susan Warner and Harriet Beecher Stowe A bold and imaginative work Manhood and the American Renaissance will enlighten and inspire controversy among all students of American literature nineteenth century American history and the relation of gender and literature The Lester Family Collection/An Unwilling Conquest/A Lady Of Expectations/The Reasons For Marriage Stephanie Laurens,2015-01-01 In The Reasons for Marriage Lenore Lester was perfectly content with her quiet country life caring for her father and having no desire for marriage She took steps to remain inconspicuous and tried her best to show indifference but no avail The irresistible Duke of Eversleigh had found her out and was quite persistent in his affections In A Lady of Expectations Jack Lester had to find a bride but where could he find the perfect woman to accept him as he was devilishly handsome responsible and poor as a church mouse If he publicized his hidden wealth disaster would certainly follow Sophie Winterton was everything he desired and more But Sophie knew that Jack needed to marry into wealth in order to run his family's estate How would he convince her that she was the woman he wanted and that he could be the husband she deserved In An Unwilling Conquest Harry Lester has no intention of falling for a woman again let alone being ensnared by the trap of marriage Now with a large inheritance to his name Harry knows that he'd best start running from London's matchmaking mothers and widows Harry heads to Newmarket only to encounter Mrs Lucinda Babbacombe a beautiful independent widow And before he knows it Harry vows to protect Lucinda from the town full of lonely gambling men despite her refusal to accept his countless offers of help The London Magazine ,1822 The Living Age ,1870 Life and Reminiscences of George J. Elvey, ... lady Mary Savory Elvey,1894 Men and Women in T.S. Eliot's Early Poetry Marja Palmer,1996 Good Words ,1870 Milly Darrell, and other tales, by the author of 'Lady Audley's secret'.
