Tradition and Modernity in the Mediterranean Vassos Argyrou, 1996-06-13 The subject of Vassos Argyrou's study is modernisation as reflected in the changing nature of wedding celebrations in Cyprus over two generations from the 1930s to the present day He argues that modernisation is not a secular progressive process that remodels the life of a society ironing out local differences Rather it is a legitimising discourse It is an idiom which Greek Cypriots employ to represent and contest relationships between social classes old and young men and women city folk and villagers At the same time by involving modernisation they are submitting to foreign standards and accepting the symbolic domination of Europe

Family, Political Economy, and Demographic Change David I. Kertzer, Dennis P. Hogan, 1989 Family Political Economy and Demographic Change represents an unprecedented interdisciplinary effort to discover how changes in family life and demographic behavior actually occurred in this crucial period and how people's lives were affected. The book takes issue with a number of the most influential demographic and sociological theories dealing with the evolution of the Western family and the factors responsible for fertility decline. As in so many other parts of Europe the northern Italian community of Casalecchio experienced massive social and economic changes in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. Characterized by sharecropping agriculture and large complex family households the community faced the effects of industrialization, urbanization and dramatic political change. Making use of unusually rich archival sources to reconstruct the lives of 19 000 people who lived in Casalecchio during this period Kertzer and Hogan challenge many current generalizations regarding the emergence of modern European society.

On Jews in the Roman World Ranon Katzoff, 2019-10-01 The present volume presents a selection of studies by Ranon Katzoff on Jews in the ancient Roman world. Common to them is that they deal with Jews in liminal situations confronted with non Jewish mainly Roman laws places government and modes of thought. In these studies in which texts in Greek and Latin and rabbinic texts all in translation elucidate each other Jews are shown to be rather loyal to their Jewish traditions a controversial conclusion. The first two sections concern law. Section one searches the remains of popular Jewish culture for evidence on the degree to which rabbinic law really prevailed through the study of Judaean Desert documents mainly those of Babatha. Section two sifts through rabbinic law for traces of Roman law. Section three comprises studies of Jews in and from the city of Rome and section four a miscellany of studies on Jews confronted with non Jewish life.

Age, Marriage, and Politics in Fifteenth-century Ragusa David Rheubottom, 2000 This book combines the interdisciplinary insights of history anthropology and computing to examine the interrelationships between politics kinship and marriage in a late medieval city state. At the heart of the study is a reconsideration of office and the ways in which ties of kinship and marriage were mobilized to build electoral success. In fifteenth century Ragusa present day Dubrovnik membership of the Great Council which nominated and elected office holders was restricted to the legitimate male offspring of patrician brides and grooms. The patrician class was highly endogamous and the relationship between endogamy and electoral support is an important theme running through this book. A related theme concerns the age differences between spouses which are shown to have important structural implications for the organization of the casata kinship relations and marriage ties. These implications are investigated using a variety of innovative methods including cohort analysis and computer simulation.

The Single Life in the Roman and Later Roman World Sabine R. Huebner, Christian Laes, 2019-02-14 Using a variety of historical sources and methodological approaches this book presents the first large scale study of single men and women in the Roman world from the Roman Republic to Late Antiquity and covering virtually all periods of the ancient Mediterranean It asks how singleness was defined and for what reasons people might find themselves unmarried While marriage was generally favoured by philosophers and legislators with the arguments against largely confined to genres like satire and comedy the advent of Christianity brought about a more complex range of thinking regarding its desirability Demographic archaeological and socio economic perspectives are considered and in particular the relationship of singleness to the Roman household and family structures The volume concludes by introducing a number of comparative perspectives drawn from the early Islamic world and from other parts of Europe down to and including the nineteenth century in order to highlight possibilities for the Roman world
