A Little Princess Illustrated:

A Little Princess Illustrated Frances Hodgson Burnett, 2019-08-17 A Little Princess is a children's novel by Frances Hodgson Burnett first published as a book in 1905. It is an expanded version of the short story 'Sara Crewe or What Happened at Miss Minchin's' which was serialized in St Nicholas Magazine from December 1887 and published in book form in 1888. According to Burnett, after she composed the 1902 play 'A Little Unfair Princess' based on that story, her publisher asked that she expand the story as a novel with the things and people that had been left out before. The novel was published by Charles Scribner's Sons, also publisher of St Nicholas, with illustrations by Ethel Franklin Betts and the full title 'A Little Princess Being the Whole Story of Sara Crewe Now Being Told for the First Time'. A Little Princess Frances Hodgson Burnett, 2020-01-07 When Sara Crewe is brought from India to attend Miss Minchin's boarding school for girls in London, she arrives looking rather like a princess with trunks full of the finest clothes. Yet despite having her own pony and carriage, private room and personal maid, Sara is never a snob to her fellow pupils. Instead, she is kind, thoughtful, and generous, and soon she is friends with all the girls there. But when the terrible news of her father's death and failed financial investments arrives, Sara is suddenly left a penniless orphan. She is allowed to stay at the school, but as a servant, and the cruel Miss Minchin starves and ill-treats her. Faced with day after day of endless exhausting work, Sara relies on her friendships and her imagination to get her through the misery of her circumstances. However, when Mr Carrisford and his assistant Ram Dass arrive from India and move in next door to the school, and warm blankets and delicious food mysteriously begin to appear in Sara's little room in the attic, it looks like her life is about to change for ever. and English widower at Miss Minchin's boarding school for girls in London. Because of her father's wealth and connections, Sara enjoys a life of luxury and convenience which abruptly comes to an end when she learns that her father has passed away following an unfortunate turn of events that leaves him penniless. The Headmistress, Miss Minchin, who secretly despises Sara but pretends otherwise while she is wealthy, becomes infuriated over a large unpaid bill left by her father's passing and consequently strips Sara of almost all her belongings and forces her to live in a cold and poorly furnished attic, making her earn her keep by working as an errand girl. To survive those hard times, Sara imagines herself to be a little princess as she awaits her rescue from a mysterious benefactor. About the Illustrator: This edition has been carefully edited and includes original illustrations by famous children's illustrator Eva Evgeniya. Eva has dedicated her life to children and continues to actively produce creatively and support works for children's growth and mental progress.
