A Perfect Day For Rain:

Grace Grace Roys, Harvey Roys, 2017-04-12 Grace Woodbridge Roys suffered from bi polar disease before it was well understood. Her daughter feared that her children would also suffer mental illness. This annotation of Grace's diary opens the early 1900s missionary world in China and the personality of Grace to the reader. In December 1910 Grace married Harvey Curtis Roys who was teaching physics at Kiang Nan government school in Nanking under the sponsorship of the YMCA. Grace had had a mental breakdown weeks earlier when her missionary father forbade the marriage. The diary records their early married life the births of their first two children their social life with other missionaries in China many of whom made major contributions to Nanking life and education medical doctors and nurses theology professors agricultural innovators and founders of universities hospitals nursing schools and schools for young Chinese women and men. Included is their experience evacuating during the Sun Yat sen Revolution of 1911. Well known missionaries of that time came to tea and taught at the Hillcrest School that the mothers began for foreign children. The Nanyang Exposition took place in 1910 too as China was in the throes of entering the modern era with trains electricity telegraphs and a new interest in democracy.

When the Rains Come John Alcock, 2009-04-17 Life in the desert is a waiting game waiting for rain. And in a year of drought the stakes are especially high. John Alcock knows the Sonoran Desert better than just about anyone else and in this book he tracks the changes he observes in plant and animal life over the course of a drought year. Combining scientific knowledge with years of exploring the desert he describes the variety of ways in which the wait for rain takes place and what happens when it finally comes. The desert is a land of five seasons featuring two summers hot dry months followed by monsoon and Alcock looks at the changes that take place in an entire desert community over the course of all five. He describes what he finds on hikes in the Usery Mountains near Phoenix where he has studied desert life over three decades and where frequent visits have enabled him to notice effects of seasonal variation that might escape a casual glance. Blending a personal perspective with field observation Alcock shows how desert ecology depends entirely on rainfall. He touches on a wide range of topics concerning the desert's natural history noting the response of saguaro flowers to heat and the habits of predators whether soaring red tailed hawk or tiny horned lizard. He also describes unusual aspects of insects that few desert hikers will have noticed such as the disruptive color pattern of certain grasshoppers that is more effective than most camouflage. When the Rains Come is brimming with new insights into the desert from the mating behaviors of insects to urban sprawl and features photographs that document changes in the landscape as drought years come and go. It brings us the desert in the harshest of times and shows that it is still teeming with life.
