Simplifying Radicals An expression in simplest form contains no factors that are perfect squares or cubes, no fractions, and no radicals. When simplifying a square root, we look for factors of the radicand that are perfect squares and then we use the square root of each of these factors to simplify the square root. If there are no perfect squares or perfect cubes in the radicand, then the radical is in simplest form.

For example, to simplify the expression $\sqrt{18}$, we look for perfect square factors of 18.
