

A high-angle photograph of a cityscape. In the foreground, a large, flat roof of a building is covered in a dense layer of green vegetation, likely a green roof or a garden. Below the roof, a large, open green field stretches across the middle ground. In the background, a dense cluster of buildings, including residential and commercial structures, is visible under a clear blue sky.

Singh, Priyanie Amerasinghe, 2014-06-13 The population of cities around the world is growing at an alarming rate and as a result the landscapes of most cities are going through enormous changes In particular fertile agricultural lands at the periphery of cities are being developed without consideration of holistic planning As such peri urban areas zones of transition from rural to urban land uses located between the outer limits of the urban and the rural environment are experiencing significant losses of agricultural land increased runoff and water quality degradation Concurrently the demands for water food and energy are increasing within cities and unless a balance is struck the liveability of these cities will soon be compromised The current water and land use changes have serious consequences on lifestyle environment health and overall well being of urban communities This book therefore helps readers to understand the current issues and challenges and examines suitable strategies and practices to cope with current and future pressures of urbanisation and peri urban land use changes The book examines a number of critical aspects in relation to the future of cities and peri urban regions including
