Product Overview

The Model 8720 Device Program / Test Unit is a powerful programming and test tool that expedites installation of intelligent devices. Model 8720 programs addresses into devices, and tests them to assure they operate properly prior to installation. Prior to connecting a device circuit to the control panel, a loop test can be operated from Model 8720 allowing you to debug the circuit and test for ground faults.

(Note: AC power must be used for this operation)

The Model 8722 package includes a label printer and a larger carrying case for Model 8720 and printer. Model DPU-C1 is a carrying case used only for Model 8720.

Specifications

The Model 8720 Device Program / Test Unit is a compact, portable and menu-driven device that makes programming and testing of intelligent devices faster and easier than ever before. Model 8720 electronically programs the device's address into its non-volatile memory. Model 8720 then tests the device's functionality; assuring the installer the device works properly prior to installation.

Model 8720 has an LCD display with keypad that prompts the installer through easy to use program and test menus that take little to no training for first-time users.

Model 8720 is supplied with NiMH rechargeable batteries and an AC power supply, operating in either battery or AC modes. The batteries are easily exchanged with off-the-shelf Alkaline AA batteries.

To program and test a detector, simply insert the detector in the integrated detector base of Model 8720 and enter the device address, as prompted on the LCD backlit display of Model 8720.

The address automatically increments to the next address for ease of addressing multiple devices, but the user can easily insert a different address if desired. The user also has the option of entering a loop number if they are printing labels at the same time.

Using the optional label printer is as simple as telling the Model 8720 unit how many labels are required. The labels will automatically print as the devices are programmed. The label maker is operated on AC power.

There is also an option to perform a loop test. (Model 8720 will only operate with AC power in this mode, due to power consumption.) Model 8720 will display the addresses and the device type a summary count of devices (by type) communicating on that loop; as well as indicate whether there are addresses that have no device, and whether if the devices are in 'alarm' mode. The operator can also use Model 8720 to detect ground faults on the device loop.
