Creating Dynamic Space in Higher Education: Modern Shifts in Policy, Competencies, and Governance Areba, George Ngwacho, Gisore, Billiah Nyamota, Njurui, Evelyn Wanjiru, 2024-11-22. The 21st century has brought transformative changes to higher education, reshaping how institutions approach research, teaching, and learning. Shifts in policies, competencies, and the integration of technology have redefined the landscape, which has pushed higher education to adapt to new demands. With increasing globalization and digitization, universities and colleges face challenges in aligning their structures with the needs of a rapidly evolving labor market and society. Creating Dynamic Space in Higher Education: Modern Shifts in Policy, Competencies, and Governance examines the critical shifts reshaping higher education, including governance changes, digital transformation, globalization, and evolving instructional practices. With contributions from field experts, this volume offers practical strategies, case studies, and insights on addressing financial challenges, adapting roles, and developing competencies for the future workforce. This book is ideal for education managers, instructors, policymakers, and researchers seeking to navigate these changes and optimize their institutions for the future.

Embedding Social Justice in Teacher Education and Development in Africa Carmel McNaught, Sarah Gravett, 2021-02-15. This book explores the plethora of social justice issues facing teacher education and development in Africa. Using both theoretical and empirical perspectives, it considers the need for teacher education to be transformational and address conventional pedagogy as well as the rights and duties of all citizens. The edited volume focuses on a wide range of relevant aspects such as decolonisation, economic models, environmental concerns, as well as multilingual and multicultural aspects of education. Evidence-based chapters cover strategies used to support preservice and in-service teachers on how best to tackle issues of social justice through induction activities, pedagogy, and discipline content involving local communities and the role of technology, including the use of open educational resources. The principles underlying these strategies are being used in the COVID-19 pandemic and will be equally relevant in the post-COVID-19 world. This book will be of great interest for academics, researchers, and postgraduate students in the fields of teacher education, African education, educational policy, international education, and comparative education.

Universities and Economic Development in Africa Nico Cloete, Tracy Bailey, 2011. Universities and economic development in Africa presents the syntheses and key findings of eight African countries and universities. The analysis and discussions presented in the book draw the following three main conclusions:

1. There is a lack of clarity and agreement pact about a development model and the role of higher education in development at both national and institutional levels. There is however an increasing awareness particularly at government level of the importance of universities in the global context of the knowledge economy.
2. Research production at the eight African universities is not strong enough to enable them to build on their traditional undergraduate teaching roles and make a sustained contribution to development via new knowledge production. A number of universities have manageable student staff ratios and adequately qualified staff but inadequate funds for staff to engage in research. In addition the incentive regimes do not support knowledge production.
3. In none of the countries in the sample is there a coordinated effort between government external stakeholders and the university to systematically strengthen the contribution that the university can make to development. While at each of the universities there are exemplary development projects that connect strongly to external stakeholders and strengthen the academic core, the challenge is how to increase the number of these projects.

The project on which this report is based forms part of a larger study on Higher Education and Economic Development in Africa undertaken by the Higher Education Research and Advocacy Network in Africa (HERANA). HERANA is coordinated by the Centre for Higher Education Transformation in South Africa.

This book analyses the interplay of urban agriculture and food sovereignty through the innovative lens of the critical urban food perspective. It focuses on the mobilisation of urban food producers as a powerful response to highly exclusionary dynamics in the agri-food system including insufficient food access and disastrous land dispossession. This volume particularly aims to fill the gap in the current literature by engaging with food sovereignty discourses and movements in urban areas. Related activism of urban food producers in the Global South remains underrepresented in practice and in literature. Therefore this book engages with the lived realities of an urban agriculture initiative in George, South Africa. Building on theoretical notions of the right to the city and everyday forms of resistance, the book illuminates how deprived food producers expose inequalities and propose alternatives. The findings of in-depth empirical research reveal that dwellers perceive farming as a mean to overcome historical segregation, high food prices and unhealthy nutrition. Hence they breathe life into food sovereignty in practice and suggest further alliances beyond the city. The book will be of interest to scholars and students of alternative food politics, agrarian transformation and food movements as well as rural urban intersections.
