- A When Sidis was seven months, he pointed at the moon and said 'moon'.
- B At eighteen months, he could read The New York Times.
- C At six, he could speak Russian, French, German and Hebrew.
- D Aged nine, he gave a lecture on mathematics at Harvard University.
- E Journalists followed him around and wrote articles about him but he didn't achieve much as an adult.
- F He died in 1944, aged 46.

C

- 1 His parents were from Russia. They moved to New York.
- 2 William's first word was 'door'.
- 3 William was six when he could speak Russian, French, German and Hebrew.
- 4 When he was nine, he gave a lecture on mathematics at Harvard University.
- 5 Two years later he began attending Harvard University.
- 6 Journalists followed him around.
- 7 His sister said he knew all the languages of the world and that he could learn a language in a day.
- 8 For most of his adult life, Sidis was 'running away' from fame.

6A

- 1 Mistake: His first word was door, not moon.
He took one day to learn a language, not one week.

Scientific Data Management Arie Shoshani, Doron Rotem, 2009-12-16 Dealing with the volume complexity and diversity of data currently being generated by scientific experiments and simulations often causes scientists to waste productive time. Scientific Data Management Challenges Technology and Deployment describes cutting edge technologies and solutions for managing and analyzing vast amounts of data helping Fundamental Considerations in Technology Mediated Language Assessment Karim Sadeghi, Dan Douglas, 2023-04-27 Fundamental Considerations in Technology Mediated Language Assessment aims to address issues such as how the forced integration of technology into second language assessment has shaped our understanding of key traditional concepts like validity reliability washback authenticity ethics fairness test security and more. Although computer assisted language testing has been around for more than two decades in the context of high stakes proficiency testing much of language testing worldwide has shifted to at home mode and relies heavily on the mediation of digital technology making its widespread application in classroom settings in response to the COVID 19 outbreak unprecedented. Integration of technology into language assessment has brought with it countless affordances and at the same time challenges both theoretically and practically. One major theoretical consideration requiring attention is the way technology has contributed to a reconceptualization of major assessment concepts constructs. There is very limited literature available on the theoretical underpinnings of technology mediated language assessment. This book aims to fill this gap. This book will appeal to academic specialists practitioners or professionals in the field of language assessment advanced and or graduate students and a range of scholars or professionals in disciplines like educational technology applied linguistics and teaching English to speakers of other languages TESOL. Reimagining Communication: Action Michael Filimowicz, Veronika Tzankova, 2020-08-04 As a part of an extensive exploration Reimagining Communication Action investigates the practical implications of communication as a cultural industry media ecology and a complex social activity integral to all domains of life. The Reimagining Communication series develops a new information architecture for the field of communications studies grounded in its interdisciplinary origins and looking ahead to emerging trends as researchers take into account new media technologies and their impacts on society and culture. The diverse and comprehensive body of contributions in this unique interdisciplinary resource explore communication as a form of action within a mix of social cultural political and economic contexts. They emphasize the continuously expanding horizons of the field by engaging with the latest trends in practical inquiry within communication studies. Reflecting on the truly diverse implications of communicative processes and representations Reimagining Communication Action covers key practical developments of concern to the field. It integrates diverse theoretical and practice based perspectives to emphasize the purpose and significance of communication to human experience at individual and social levels in a uniquely accessible and engaging way.

This is an essential introductory text for advanced undergraduate and graduate students along with scholars of communication broadcast media and interactive technologies with an interdisciplinary focus and an emphasis on the integration of new technologies
