

3 BASIC ECONOMIC QUESTIONS

The dilemma of scarcity forces societies to consider some basic economic questions. No society has enough resources to produce everything that people want. Therefore, every society must make choices.

What Should Be Produced?

A society can't have everything its people want, so it must decide what to produce. Every society must decide how to use its resources to meet the needs of its people. It needs to determine what to produce and how much. Resources used for one purpose can't be used for another. For an example, a piece of land can be used as a site for a factory or can be used to grow crops. Unfortunately, the land can only be used for one of these things.

How Should It Be Produced?

When a society determines what to produce, it must then decide what methods will be used, how many workers will work on the production, what will be the quality and quantity of the items produced, etc.

Who Should Share in What Is Produced?

This question centers on the idea that people can't have everything they want because the society doesn't have enough resources. In most societies, people can have as many goods and services that they can afford to buy provided that they are available. So, the amount of income people receive determines how many goods and services they can purchase.
