2014 Examplers For Life Sciences:

Data and Text Processing for Health and Life Sciences Francisco M. Couto,2019-06-10 This open access book is a step by step introduction on how shell scripting can help solve many of the data processing tasks that Health and Life specialists face everyday with minimal software dependencies The examples presented in the book show how simple command line tools can be used and combined to retrieve data and text from web resources to filter and mine literature and to explore the semantics encoded in biomedical ontologies To store data this book relies on open standard text file formats such as TSV CSV XML and OWL that can be open by any text editor or spreadsheet application The first two chapters Introduction and Resources provide a brief introduction to the shell scripting and describe popular data resources in Health and Life Sciences The third chapter Data Retrieval starts by introducing a common data processing task that involves multiple data resources Then this chapter explains how to automate each step of that task by introducing the required commands line tools one by one The fourth chapter Text Processing shows how to filter and analyze text by using simple string matching techniques and regular expressions The last chapter Semantic Processing shows how XPath queries and shell scripting is able to process complex data such as the graphs used to specify ontologies Besides being almost immutable for more than four decades and being available in most of our personal computers shell scripting is relatively easy to learn by Health and Life specialists as a sequence of independent commands Comprehending them is like conducting a new laboratory protocol by testing and understanding its procedural steps and variables and combining their intermediate results Thus this book is particularly relevant to Health and Life specialists or students that want to easily learn how to process data and text and which in return may facilitate and inspire them to acquire deeper bioinformatics skills in the future

Dual-use life science research and biosecurity in the 21st Century: Social, Technical, Policy, and Ethical Challenges Jonathan E. Suk,Kathleen M. Vogel,Amanda Jane Ozin,2015-06-04 In September 2011 scientists announced new experimental findings that would not only threaten the conduct and publication of influenza research but would have significant policy and intelligence implications The findings presented a modified variant of the H5N1 avian influenza virus hereafter referred to as the H5N1 virus that was transmissible via aerosol between ferrets These results suggested a worrisome possibility the existence of a new airborne and highly lethal H5N1 virus that could cause a deadly global pandemic In response a series of international discussions on the nature of dual use life science arose These discussions addressed the complex social technical political security and ethical issues related to dual use research This Research Topic will be devoted to contributions that explore this matrix of issues from a variety of case study and international perspectives Visuospatial Processing for Education in Health and Natural Sciences Juan C. Castro-Alonso,2019-08-05 Visuospatial processing is key to learn and perform professionally in the domains of health and natural sciences As such there is accumulating research showing the importance of visuospatial processing for education in diverse health sciences e g medicine anatomy surgery and in many natural sciences e g biology chemistry physics geology In general visuospatial processing is treated separately as a spatial ability and b working memory with visuospatial stimuli This book attempts to link these two research perspectives and present visuospatial processing as the cognitive activity of two components of working memory mostly the visuospatial sketch pad and also the central executive which allows to perform in both spatial ability and working memory tasks Focusing on university education in the fields of health sciences and natural sciences the chapters in this book describe the abilities of mental rotation mental folding spatial working memory visual working memory among others and how different variables affect them Some of these variables thoroughly addressed in the book are sex gender visualizations interactivity cognitive load and embodiment The book concludes with a chapter presenting VAR a battery of computer based tests to measure different tasks entailing visuospatial processing With contributions by top educational psychologists from around the globe this book will be of interest to a broad array of readers across the disciplines Perspectives on Environmental Law Scholarship Ole W.
