The group work is focused on activities that are carefully designed and scaffolded to enable students to develop important concepts or to deepen and refine their understanding of those ideas or concepts for themselves based entirely on data provided in class not on prior reading of the textbook or other introduction to the topic. The learning environment is structured to support the development of process skills such as teamwork effective communication information processing problem solving and critical thinking. The instructor's role is to facilitate the development of student concepts and process skills not to simply deliver content to the students. The first part of this book introduces the theoretical and philosophical foundations of POGIL pedagogy and summarizes the literature demonstrating its efficacy. The second part of the book focusses on implementing POGIL covering the formation and effective management of student teams offering guidance on the selection and writing of POGIL activities as well as on facilitation teaching large classes and assessment. The book concludes with examples of implementation in STEM and non STEM disciplines as well as guidance on how to get started. This work is a showcase for the integration of systems biology and bioinformatics tools algorithms and models for deciphering biological phenomena. More specifically it integrates i prediction algorithms for identifying and characterizing molecular interactions ii structural modelling of molecule complexes iii network analysis approaches and iv mathematical modelling and simulation. Two comprehensive workflows are implemented for the analysis of collective target gene regulation by microRNAs and for the prediction of cooperating microRNA pairs and their mutual target genes. In two case studies mechanisms of fine tuned target gene regulation are revealed for different cellular processes and the phenomenon of cooperative target regulation is identified as frequent mechanism of gene regulation in humans.
