BURTON SNOWBOARDS

Stratton Mountain, Vermont, 05155

(602)824-3156

Snowsurfing is wintertime's finest high. The experience of riding down a steep hill with plenty of fresh snow can only be compared to the sensation found in surfing a hollow six foot tube.

The sport of Snowsurfing is growing quickly, and many riders out there are developing unique styles for packed or powder snow. More and more Snowsurfing is being done on ski areas, but the finest riding is still found on that deserted backhill or golf course where there is nothing to interfere with you, only your friends, your board, and plenty of virgin powder.

Most every town which gets snow has plenty of hills where powder just sits waiting to be surfed up. With our new line of boards you can now go out and surf those spots. Of course, in the past Burton Snowboards have been known for their versatility, and we have included that indispensable trait in the line. Our new shapes, however, with their added width and taper, assure a high performance ride in fresh snow as well [be it heavy as cement or Utah fluff].

In developing an excellent powder board capable of handling a wide range of less ideal conditions, we focussed on the essentials: control, durability, and speed. Our competition proven, twin fin design combined with a wider flex pattern, holds your board on line, while the snugest binding system in the business keeps you where you belong, on the board. [Bindings are on Backhill Board only and are releasable.]

To assure durability we have gone to a new high technology laminating process using only the finest domestic and imported woods available. This rugged construction combined with a protective urethane base offers high durability with minimum weight and maximum speed. The main advantage of a fast board, aside from leaving others behind, is that any snowy hill becomes rideable regardless of size or steepness.

Remember that our commitment to an all-round board has not been ignored. In fact the design which won the National Surfing Championship in 1979 and 1980, [open class] is embodied in our new line. All boards still come with a removable power leash for harder snow, and jumping in tight areas [see poster]. Bumps, slush, and packed snow can still be mastered and offer an excellent ride.

Burton Snowboards are bench made at our factory in Vermont where we have been designing, making and riding snowboards for over 12 years. All Burton Snowboards are hand finished and personally initialed by a member of our staff.
