Lloyd's Register Technical Association Session 1987-1988 Lloyd's Register Foundation, 1987-01-01 The Lloyd's Register Technical Association LRTA was established in 1920 with the primary objective of sharing technical expertise and knowledge within Lloyd's Register Publications have consistently been released on a yearly basis with a brief interruption between 1938 and 1946. These publications serve as a key reference point for best practices and were initially reserved for internal use to maximise LR's competitive advantage. Today the LRTA takes a fresh approach focusing on collaboration by combining professional expertise from across LRF Group to ensure a frequent output of fresh perspectives and relevant content. The LRTA has evolved into a Group wide initiative that identifies, captures and shares knowledge spanning various business streams and functions. To support this modern approach the LRTA has adopted a new structure featuring representatives and senior governance across the business streams and the LR Foundation. The Lloyd's Register Technical Association Papers should be seen as historical documents representing earlier viewpoints and are not reflective of current thinking and perspectives by the current LR Technical Association. The Lloyd's Register Staff Association LRSA changed its name to the Lloyd's Register Technical Association LRTA in 1973.

The Laboratory Recorder Galen Ewing, 2013-11-11 One of the most universal functions of any scientific or engineering laboratory is the gathering of data to provide answers to immediate questions or information to be filed for future reference. Such data gathering may be achieved in various ways depending on the nature and quantity of the information. The most prevalent of such data gathering methods is undoubtedly analog recording. Electrical analog recorders are available in a variety of sizes, speeds, sensitivities and prices. They are suitable for recording any signal which is in or can be converted to electrical form. These recorders are found in every modern laboratory. Without them the importance of many functional relations would be missed altogether. How could one adequately diagnose a heart ailment without a cardiographic recorder or obtain infrared or magnetic resonance spectra on any practicable basis without a strip chart recorder? True, various curves that are now traced automatically with a recorder can be plotted manually from point by point measurements. This procedure however is not only time consuming but may cause valid bits of information to be overlooked entirely simply because the points were taken too far apart. Another factor favoring the use of recorders is the ability to pinpoint faulty operation of the data gathering system. Artifacts that might not be observable at all in point by point observations. 1. The Laboratory Recorder 2. will often be readily identifiable on a recording. Asymmetry of a peaked curve for example is only clearly evident in a recording.
