How to Make a Lava Lamp

What Happened

A lava lamp works because of two different scientific principles: density and polarity.

Density is the measurement of how compact a substance is. The denser it is, the more it will sink.

If you mix oil and water, you'll find that the water is heavier than the oil. Water is heavier than oil, so it will sink to the bottom of the oil.

Adding food coloring to the oil and water will create a beautiful mixture. The colors will be "polar" because they have a positive electrical charge that attracts other colors. It's like oil molecules, however, are non-polar. They don't have a positive charge, so they are not attracted to the water molecules at all. This is why oil and water don't mix. Instead of mixing, a light color is created. The colors will rise to the top of the lamp. The colors will then sink to the bottom, creating a beautiful mixture. The colors will then rise to the top, creating a beautiful mixture. The colors will then sink to the bottom, creating a beautiful mixture. The colors will then rise to the top, creating a beautiful mixture.
