

STATE FLOAT

The float is a black box with a leopard print pattern, labeled "North Carolina". It is decorated with various items including a map, a rooster, a landscape photo, a person's photo, a bird photo, and a boat photo. Several handwritten notes on black paper are placed around the float, providing information about the state's history, museums, and attractions. The project is set on a wooden desk.

Handwritten notes include:

- The flag has a 11 and 13 on either side of the white star because it stands for North Carolina. Until 1885 the flag was slightly different. The lower date was May 20, 1776, the day North Carolina declared from the Great Britain during the Civil War.
- The North Carolina Museum of Natural Sciences is a landmark because it is the oldest museum in the state. The museum has two buildings known as the Natural Sciences Center and the Science Center. Both the Natural Sciences Center and the Science Center are filled with interactive learning opportunities and educational materials.
- One tourist attraction is The Biltmore Estate because it is the largest private home in the United States. The mansion has 250 rooms and it has the Italian Garden. It also has the Rose Garden which features more than 250 varieties.
- North Carolina is called the "Tar Heel State" because of the pitch or tar used to seal the wooden planks of the ship's hull. The state flower is the bluebell.
- Charlotte is the major city in North Carolina.
- North Carolina's state bird is a cardinal.
