The Power of Student Agency Anindya Kundu, 2020-07-10 How can we promote the learning and well being of all students especially those who come from some of the most disadvantaged backgrounds Anindya Kundu argues that we can fight against deeply rooted inequalities in the American educational system by harnessing student agency each person s unique capacity for positive change To make his case Kundu draws powerful narratives from a population of individuals who beat the odds to become academically and professionally successful These strivers have overcome challenges such as broken families homelessness unexpected pregnancies forms of abuse incarceration and more to make it in the world But it wasn't simply individualism tenacity resilience or grit that helped them Rather as Kundu illustrates it was a combination of social and cultural supports that paved the path towards their dreams harnessing the inherent power of their agency Book Features A counter narrative to the popular misconception that all students need is grit A strengths based approach to education that is sensitive to students communities and cultures Rich first person quotes from individuals who have overcome immense odds Useful diagrams for educational stakeholders on the relationship between grit and agency Descriptions of dense sociological concepts presented in plain terms Inclusion of fundamental and new waves in psychology

Mapping Human Sensory-Motor Skills for Manipulation onto the Design and Control of Robots Matteo Bianchi, Gionata Salvietti, 2019-03-25 Humans are endowed with extraordinary sensory motor capabilities that enable a successful interaction with and exploration of the environment as is the case of human manipulation Understanding and modeling these capabilities represents an important topic not only for neuroscience but also for robotics in a mutual inspiration both to inform the design and control of artificial systems and at the same time to increase knowledge on the biological side Within this context synergies i.e. goal directed actions that constrain multi DOFs of the human body and can be defined at the kinematic muscular neural level have gained increasing attention as a general simplified approach to shape the development of simple and effective artificial devices The execution of such purposeful sensory motor primitives on the biological side leverages on the interplay of the sensory motor control at central and peripheral level and the interaction of the human body with the external world This interaction is particularly important considering the new concept of robotic soft manipulation i.e. soft adaptable yet robust robotic hands that can deform with the external environment to multiply their grasping and manipulation capabilities Under this regard a preeminent role is reserved to touch being that skin is our primary organ to shape our knowledge of the external world and hence to modify it in interaction with the efferent parts This Research Topic reports results on the mutual inspiration between neuroscience and robotics and on how it is possible to translate neuroscientific findings on human manipulation into engineering guidelines for simplified systems able to take full advantage from the interaction and hence exploitation of environmental constraints for task accomplishment and knowledge acquisition
