- The acquisition method embraces the - ANSfair value measurement for measuring and assessing business activity.

A business combination is the formation of a single economic entity, an event that occurs - ANSwhenever one company gains control over another

Business combinations can be created in several different ways - ANS1. Statutory merger

2. Statutory consolidation

3. Acquisition by one company of a controlling interest in the voting stock of a target company.

Statutory merger - ANSonly one of the original companies remains in business as a legally incorporated enterprise.

- a. Assets and liabilities can be acquired with the seller then dissolving itself as a corporation.
- b. All of the capital stock of a company can be acquired with the assets and liabilities then transferred to the buyer followed by the seller's dissolution

Statutory consolidation— - ANSassets or capital stock of two or more companies are transferred to a newly formed corporation

Acquisition by one company of a controlling interest in the voting stock of a target company. Dissolution does not take place; both parties retain - ANStheir separate legal incorporation. The result is a parent and subsidiary

- Fair value is defined as - ANSthe price that would be received to sell an asset or paid to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date.

Fair Value Valuation techniques - ANS1. The Market Approach - The market approach estimates fair values using other market transactions involving similar assets or liabilities.

2. The Income Approach - based on the present value of future cash flows
3. The Cost Approach - based on current replacement cost.

The acquisition method replaced the purchase method. For combinations resulting in complete ownership, it is distinguished by four characteristics - ANS1. All assets acquired and liabilities assumed in the combination are recognized and measured at their individual fair values (with few exceptions).

2. The fair value of the consideration transferred provides a starting point for valuing and recording a business combination.

- a. The consideration transferred includes cash, securities, and contingent performance obligations.
- b. Direct combination costs are expensed as incurred.
