Derived from the 2015 Computational Methods in Experimental Economics CMEE conference this book features papers containing research and analysis of economic experiments concerning research in such areas as management science decision theory game theory marketing and political science. The goal is to present possibilities for using various computer methods in the scope of experimental economics to further provide researchers with a wide variety of tools. The field of experimental economics is rapidly evolving. Modern use of experimental economics requires the integration of knowledge in the domains of economic sciences computer science psychology and neuroscience. Recent research includes experiments conducted both in the laboratory and in the field and the results are used for testing and a better understanding of economic theories. Researchers working in this field use mainly a set of well established methods and computer tools that support the experiments. Methods such as artificial intelligence computer simulation and computer graphics however are not represented enough in experimental economics studies and most experimenters do not consider their usage. The goal of the conference and the enclosed papers is to allow for an exchange of experiences and to promote joint initiatives to insight change in this trend.
