4. The next procedure is to remove the door handle and the handle lock plates. The handle lock plate is the protrusion of metal that sits on top of the door handle. Once the door handle is loose, reach for your flathead screwdriver and take the door handle off. Remove the door handle of course though you'll have to remove the door handle lock plate to do so. If you're having trouble, there are two small notches down the center of the door handle.
