Hill's Manual of Social and Business Forms Thomas Edie Hill, 1887 Recent Progress in Bioconversion of Lignocellulosics G.T. Tsao, 2003-06-30 This volume describes recent advances in the bioconversion of lignocellulosics. It starts with two articles on genetics and properties of cellulases and their reaction kinetics and mechanisms. The cost of cellulases has been a hindrance to large scale use of enzymatic hydrolysis. Two articles on cellulase production by submerged fermentation and by solid state fermentation are included to describe the state of the art in this area. Dilute acid hydrolysis of cellulose continues to be of interest as well as potentially useful. The most recent advances in this area are also covered. A great deal of progress has been made in genetic engineering for improved regulation of xylose fermentation by yeasts. An article on genetically engineered Saccharomyces for simultaneous fermentation of glucose and xylose describes the importance of advances made in production of fuel ethanol from lignocellulosic biomass. In recent years there has been increasing interest in recycling and the reuse of scrap paper as well as environmental considerations. A contribution is presented which describes the research perspectives in that area. Finally, recent advances in the use of lignocellulosic biomass for the production of ethanol and organic acids are presented in two articles. Renewable resources are inevitably of great importance in the years to come. There is a never ending search for better living conditions for human beings. The more resource materials can be recycled the richer we will be.
