Adding Phone Number In Report Writer:

Report Writing for Criminal Justice Professionals Larry S. Miller, John T. Whitehead, 2010-11-24 So much of the process of criminal justice depends on good documentation and criminal justice professionals can spend as much as 50-75% of their time writing up administrative and research reports. Much of the legal process depends on the careful documentation that records crucial information. And yet most of these law enforcement, security, corrections, and probation and parole officers have not had adequate training in how to provide a well-written, accurate, brief, and complete report. Report Writing for Criminal Justice Professionals provides practical advice on report writing with specific writing samples and guidelines. The authors go beyond the routine English grammar approach to deal with the difficult but often ignored problem of documentation that will hold up in court. Important concepts are emphasized with related checklists, forms, and pull-out chapter tests. The material is organized into three sections: The Nature of Report Writing, The Mechanics of Report Writing, and The Modernization of Report Writing. NEW TO THIS EDITION: Updated and revised with new material on forensics and scientific reports, crime reporting, common errors in forensic reports, and automation of report writing. Appendixes are thoroughly revised with new examples of reporting forms, worksheets, and reports, including a sample forensic lab report and presentence investigation report. Text complemented by numerous examples, sample reports, and tools. Each chapter concludes with a sample test for the reader to self-evaluate learning. Appendixes include model reports, examples of agency instructions for completing report forms, and selected readings.

The Visual FoxPro Report Writer Cathy Pountney, 2002

Reports are key to a successful software application. It doesn't matter how efficiently the users can enter data, how much information the system can store, or how many complicated calculations the system can process; if there's no way to see the final outcome, it's useless. In The Visual FoxPro Report Writer, Cathy Pountney tells you how to use every nook and cranny of the report writer and even shows you how to do things you thought were up to now impossible. If you're serious about quality output from your VFP applications, you can't do without this book.

Report Writing for Architects David Chappell, 2014-05-16

Report Writing for Architects presents a critical review of standard report formats used in writing reports for architects. It discusses a set of formats to help architects and surveyors to create good reports for their clients. It addresses every instance that necessitates the creation of architectural reports. Some of the topics covered in the book are the purpose, target audience, format, presentation, and main points of a report; description, style, and basis of the content of report to be written; creating reports connected with building projects; making of feasibility report format and its content and considerations in creating a report; The outline, proposals, report format and the scheme design format are discussed. An in-depth analysis of creating a progress report is given. The book also covers a special report report on claim for loss and expense, a report on award of extension of time format and miscellaneous reports. The book can provide useful information to architects, surveyors, students, and researchers.
