9 2 Practice Reflections:

Everyday Activities to Promote Visual Efficiency Ellen Trief, Rona Shaw, 2009 Early intervention services are essential for infants and toddlers who are visually impaired and have some functional vision that they will be able to use for everyday activities not only to ensure their early development but also to help them learn to use their vision with maximum effectiveness right from the start. Everyday Activities to Promote Visual Efficiency offers guiding principles for early intervention with very young children who are visually impaired and who may also have additional disabilities. This important new resource provides simple activities that can be incorporated easily by families and service providers into the everyday routines of a baby or child to facilitate early visual development and use of functional vision

The Body in Professional Practice, Learning and Education Bill Green, Nick Hopwood, 2014-11-14 The body matters in practice. How then might we think about the body in our work in and on professional practice learning and education? What value is there in realising and articulating the notion of the professional practitioner as crucially embodied? Beyond that what of conceiving of the professional practice field itself as a living corporate body? How is the body implicated in understanding and researching professional practice learning and education? Body Practice is an extensive volume dedicated to exploring these and related questions philosophically and empirically. It constitutes a rare but much needed reframing of scholarship relating to professional practice and its relation with professional learning and professional education more generally. It takes bodies seriously, developing theoretical frameworks offering detailed analyses from empirical studies and opening up questions of representation. The book is organized into four parts: I. Introducing the Body in Professional Practice Learning and Education; II. Thinking with the Body in Professional Practice; III. The Body in Question in Health Professional Education and Practice; IV. Concluding Reflections. It brings together researchers from a range of disciplinary and professional practice fields, including particular reference to Health and Education. Across fifteen chapters the authors explore a broad range of issues and challenges with regard to corporeality, practice theory and philosophy and professional education, providing an innovative, coherent and richly informed account of what it means to bring the body back in with regard to professional education and beyond

Service learning within the doctoral program is one of the many aspects that helps shape students' experiences and prepares them for life after graduation. Co-Constructing and Sustaining Service Learning in Graduate Programs: Reflections from the Field captures the experiences of doctoral students who were involved in socially just and sustainable service learning projects and what it meant for them to be engaged in scholarship through service learning.
