 - c. $f \times g(x)$
 - d. $\frac{f(x)}{g(x)}$
 - e. $f \div g(x)$
2. Given that $g(x) = \frac{1}{2}x + 9$ and $h(x) = (x + 1)(x - 1)$, determine the following. Simplify where possible.
 - a. $h(x) - g(x)$ [1 mark]
 - b. $h \times g(x)$ [2 marks]

Algebraic Methods in Semantics M. Nivat, John C. Reynolds, 1985 This book which contains contributions from leading researchers in France USA and Great Britain gives detailed accounts of a variety of methods for describing the semantics of programming languages i e for attaching to programs mathematical objects that encompass their meaning Consideration is given to both denotational semantics where the meaning of a program is regarded as a function from inputs to outputs and operational semantics where the meaning includes the sequence of states or terms generated internally during the computation The major problems considered include equivalence relations between operational and denotational semantics rules for obtaining optimal computations especially for nondeterministic programs equivalence of programs meaning preserving transformations of programs and program proving by assertions Such problems are discussed for a variety of programming languages and formalisms and a wealth of mathematical tools is described The Logic Programming lead to revenge problems are addressed Finally Part Five deals with dialetheic approaches to the paradoxes approaches which instead of restricting excluded middle accept certain contradictions but alter classical logic so as to keep them confined to a relatively remote part of the language Advocates of dialetheic theories have argued them to be better than theories that restrict excluded middle for instance over issues related to the incompleteness theorems and in avoiding revenge problems Field argues that dialetheists claims on behalf of their theories are quite unfounded and indeed that on some of these issues all current versions of dialetheism do substantially worse than the best theories that restrict excluded middle
