The Space Race

For over a decade, the United States and the Soviet Union were engaged in a heated competition—the space race. The space race began in 1957 when the Soviet Union launched the first artificial satellite, Sputnik. The Soviet leader Nikita Khrushchev and the American presidents Dwight Eisenhower, John Kennedy, Lyndon Johnson, and Richard Nixon all agreed that competing outer space was very important. Both countries wanted to win—to prove their scientific superiority and to show their military strength.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev wanted to show that communist technology was superior. President Kennedy wanted to beat the Soviets to the moon. Speaking about the prospect of sending astronauts to the moon in 1961, Kennedy said, "The single space project in this period will be more impressive to mankind, or more important for the long-range exploration of space, and none will be as difficult or expensive to accomplish."

By reaching the moon first in 1969, the United States won the space race. Soviet and U.S. leaders knew that being the first country to land on the moon would be an extremely important media event. The world watched each country's progress with great interest. Scientists and government leaders in both countries were under intense pressure to meet tough deadlines.
