Competition Law Enforcement is the first monograph to exclusively address this highly topical and much debated subject providing a timely and wide ranging examination of the need for more active consumer participation in competition law. Written by an expert in the field it sets out a comprehensive framework of policy implications and arguments for greater involvement positioning the debate in the context of a broader EU law perspective. It outlines pragmatic approaches to remedial and procedural measures that would enable consumer empowerment. Finally the book identifies key institutional and political obstacles to the adoption of effective measures and suggests alternative routes to enhance the role of consumers in private competition law enforcement. The book's innovative approach combining normative analysis and practical solutions make it invaluable for academics, policy makers and practitioners in the field.

The Political Economy and Media Coverage of the European Economic Crisis Julien Mercille, 2014-08-27 The European economic crisis has been ongoing since 2008 and while austerity has spread over the continent it has failed to revive economies. The media have played an important ideological role in presenting the policies of economic and political elites in a favourable light even if the latter's aim has been to shift the burden of adjustment onto citizens. This book explains how and why using a critical political economic perspective and focusing on the case of Ireland. Throughout Ireland is compared with contemporary and historical examples to contextualise the arguments made. The book covers the housing bubble that led to the crash, the rescue of financial institutions by the state, the role of the European institutions and the International Monetary Fund, austerity and the possibility of leaving the eurozone for Europe's peripheral countries. Through a systematic analysis of Ireland's main newspapers it is argued that the media reflect elite views and interests and downplay alternative policies that could lead to more progressive responses to the crisis.

An Investigation of the "Flash Crash" of 2010 using the principles of behavioral finance Jovana Paraca, 2014-03-10 Thesis M A from the year 2013 in the subject Business economics Investment and Finance grade 67 European school of economics language English abstract In every market there are some trading or buying anomalies that cannot be explained by financial instruments and theories alone. For this reason the field of behavioral finance was developed. As investors are humans they sometimes act in accordance to their instinct rather than strict financial rules. There have been many events in the last century that do not have a clear financial explanation but rather seem more possibly explained by psychological factors. One of the most recent events that has been witness to this financial anomaly is the Flash Crash of 2010. This research will look into the event as well as examine how behavioral finance theories can be used to create a rational explanation to this seemingly irrational event.
